DEDICATION

This book is dedicated to the descendants of Melchor Engle: —

first, to our ancestors who made it possible for our birth in a land of political and religious liberty;

second, to our parents who faithfully discharged their duties in rearing us to be law abiding citizens;

third, to the present generation who furnished the information contained herein, thereby passing it on to future generations;

fourth, to future generations who may appreciate this effort.

ENGLE

Somewhere out of the mist we came—
Out of the mist of the past;
A single tribe with a single name—
Each with his sorrow, his joy, his shame,—
Each with his honor, achievement, or fame,—
Adrift on life's sea so vast.

Now, there is a record of every deed,—
Of every word and thought
We weave in the woof of each life we lead
Till our brawn and our brain reflect our creed—
For thoughts become things—and our hearts shall bleed
Or exult for these records wrought.

In these biographies, then, I crave,
As mine, just what will agree
With my inward life as it seeks to brave
The outward world with its cruel wave,
As I struggle or drift from birth to grave
On the tide to Eternity.

Whate'er our heirs down the ages may do
In the mist of years unblest,
Let us hope that at least, in the Final Review,
When names of the earnest and honest and true
Are indited for deeds that the Noble would do
That ENGLE may rank with the rest.

FOREWORD

The compilation of this Melchor Engle Family History and Genealogy was started in September, 1925, and pushed forward persistently, (except for the years 1927 and 1929 in which no work was done), until the present time, April, 1940, making a total of more than twelve years in which every spare moment was devoted to the work.

The author began this work as a pleasant avocation by compiling a record of the descendants of his grandfather (No. 40 in Part I), which he intended to print in the form of a tree. He found this a fascinating hobby and continued to work towards a complete record of the Melchor Engle branch of the Engle family in America, realizing its importance to the present and future generations. Aside from the known addresses of the descendants of the author's grandfather, the original meager information about the many other branches of the family who moved from their home county (now Jefferson County, W. Va.) three and four generations ago, consisted only of the names of the pioneers and the county or town in which they settled. From that small and uncertain beginning this family "tree has grown to its present size of more than 10,300 names, including persons living in every state in the Union, Canada, Cuba, Panama, Alaska, Samoa and Hawaiian Islands, England, and on a Pacific Ocean Liner regularly sailing between America and the Orient.

The genealogical section of this book consists of two parts, each headed by the name of one of the children of Melchor Engle, the Immigrant: Philip, the oldest son, as Part I; and George (believed to be the youngest son) as Part II. Part I is about 95% complete in information for all the descendants of Philip Engle, their husbands and wives, and their birth, marriage and death dates. Part II is very incomplete, due to the lateness in which George's descendants were located. The work was about to be published three years earlier as a complete history of the Philip Engle family, when a contact was made with the descendants of George Engle, through the efforts of Miss Virginia Engle (No. 434 in Part II) Head of the Department of Library Science in Berea College, Berea, Ky. Through her efforts, and the work of others in Part II, more than 5600 names were compiled in two and one-half years time, but due to the necessity of bringing the work to a close and getting the material ready for the printers at the earliest possible date, little effort was made to secure biographies or to write again for missing names and dates in those families whose data was incomplete.

It is a matter of regret that the record is incomplete, especially in Part II, where whole families and groups of families are omitted. It would also have been necessary to have omitted other families and groups of families had it not been for the sagacity and industry of many relatives, who, in addition to their own family record, collected and furnished records for collateral branches of their families.

In compiling this work no effort was spared (during the time allotted to it) to make it as accurate and complete as possible, telling where each person lives or has lived, the vocation of the adult members of the families, and their church affiliations, etc., and giving dates of birth, marriage, and death. The material comprising the biographies (and in many cases the names and dates) was furnished by those in each family, who seemed to be the most interested in this history. The author tried to be fair and impartial to all, using only the material furnished, and to be accurate and concise. He had to deal with some discrepancies in both biographies and dates and had to use his best judgment; if he has erred he wishes to express his sincere regrets.

There was a diligent and many times repeated effort made to secure a short biographical sketch of every adult person whose name appears in Part I. Wherever there is no data, it is because they, to whom application was made, either omitted, neglected or refused to send it, and the expense in time and postage to secure it through other sources was considered too great or useless. Where there are omissions of dates, persons, or families in Part I, it is due to some one's failure to respond to the author's continued calls. However, in some cases the needed data was secured through other sources.

During the time that was given to this compilation, the author traveled many hundreds of miles to Virginia, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Missouri, and other parts of the country in search of information, talked with old inhabitants here and there, visited old cemeteries, searched through the old records of churches, probate courts, and family Bibles. He has studied genealogical works, written many letters of inquiry, and employed experienced genealogists in various parts of the country to search records, but notwithstanding these earnest labors, he is not unmindful of the incompleteness of the task he assumed. However, may it be said, that this work, especially Part I and many pages of Part II, is more complete than many family histories and will prove a real contribution to the genealogical literature of the country.

It will be observed that the usual order of genealogical arrangement has not been followed. This was done in order to make the work more practical, or easier to be read and understood, since the names, dates, and biographies are separated, although it added to the cost of printing. The index and reference system make it an easy matter to follow a family forward to the last child or backward to Melchor Engle, the Immigrant; and also to recognize at a glance on any page who are brothers and sisters and who are first cousins. All repetition of names, dates, and biographical information has been avoided as much as possible in order to economize space; therefore, in order to obtain all the given data of a person, it will be necessary in many cases to follow back through the ancestral line one or more generations. The "K-E-Y", found on page 44, fully explains the procedure in tracing any person or family.

This work has been enjoyed as a hobby, harmless and even, it is hoped, helpful, "for it is well for all in these hurried modern days to take the time to ponder the question of whence we came, as well as the more urgent one of whither we are going". "Of all the ties that bind the human race together, community life, nationality, religion, language, common tradition, etc., by far the most ancient is that of blood relationship. Industrialism tends to weaken the tie; radicalism tries to eradicate it; but we must all come back to the family and the blood of kinship as the very foundation of civilization". It is therefore in a bond of kinship that we hope this work will in some measure draw together the many thousands of descendants living, and whose ancestry is given in this book.

It is difficult to make in this foreword a full acknowledgement of the services of those who have assisted in the compiling of this work. The book is the result of the cooperation of all those who have contributed generously their data and collateral family records, history, etc., and under their names, as they appear in the book, appreciation has been expressed. There were many more whose letters indicated a very keen interest in this Family History and no doubt many of them would have given their time and effort as freely if they had been called upon to do it; therefore the author expresses his sincere appreciation for their kindly interest and good wishes. However, special mention is here made of those whose help was invaluable.

PART I

Blanche (Bacon) Engle, the author's wife, whose suggestions and editorial help were of inestimable value in the preparation of the manuscript.

Sarah (Johnson) Reid (696), of Radford, Va., loaned the author her mother's manuscript which contained much valuable information on the early settlers in the Shenandoah Valley, including part of the Engle famliy.

Ruby (Engle) Bartram (716), of Hannibal, Mo., drove to many places within a radius of fifty-five miles in order to gather information on several branches of the family who settled in Mo. Through her efforts the author was able to compile the records of more than eight hundred relatives which included the Oregon branch of the family, (William Engle, No. 28).

Frank Jackson (441), and daughter Mabel (1112), of Woodburn, Ore. cooperated with the author one hundred percent, which resulted in securing the most complete record of any large family group, or branch, of the entire Engle family. They called a meeting of their relatives in Ore. for the purpose of aiding in securing information. This meeting (1933) was the beginning of their annual reunions; see William Engle (No. 28) Family Reunion photograph pages IV, V, VI, VII. The descendants of this William Engle outnumber any other branch recorded herein, and as a whole were the author's best cooperators.

Archie Engle (1077), of Portland, Ore. spent much time and went to many places within a radius of fifty miles, securing many names and valuable information.

Niletta (Everhart) Stabler (394), of Bethany, O., collected a great amount of information in her grandmother's family (the Hunter branch, No. 27, central Ohio group), which otherwise would have been difficult for the author to secure.

Emma (Heironimus) Haigler (273), of Washington, C. H., O., secured most of the data in her grandmother's family (the Hutchinson branch, No. 14, Fayette Co., O., group).

Edna Seibert (949), R.F.D., Urbana, O., secured a great amount of data in her great-grandmother's family (No. 20) which the author had been unable to secure.

Alice (Johnston) Saville (302), of Kearneysville, Jefferson Co., W. Va., is entitled to the credit for the record of her grandmother's family (No. 15).

To the following relatives, also, the author is greatly indebted:—

Amy (Benner) Lohr (1428), and Frenchie Engle (608), York, Pa.
Huldah (Morgan) Freeland (592), Plattsburg, Mo.
Cornelia (Engle) Coffinberger (252), Falls Church, Va.
Effie (Engle) Black (792), Peace River, Alberta, Canada.

PART II

Virginia Engle (434), of Berea, Ky., the author's associate historian, did painstaking work in the preparation of the "Origin and Early History of the Engles" beginning on page 16. She also collected all the records and biographical data for the descendants of Peter Engle (No. 1), George's oldest son, as well as the records for all of George's other children (except one, No. 4), his grandchildren, and many of their descendants. She is very grateful to many who helped her in her part of the work, and especially to the persons whose names follow:—Mary (Lane) Engle, her mother, without whose interest and fund of information about the Engle generations, the collection of data would have been impossible. Elmer Decker, an authority on early history of Knox Co., Ky., who has located many valuable records of the Engles in that county. Robert Engle (87) who remembered his grandmother Engle, and whose letters, written in his 87th and 88th years, proved most helpful. Catherine (Ramsey) Culton (117), whose preservation of the Peter Engle (No. 1) family Bible containing records for his parents, his own family, and some of his grand-children, deserves the gratitude of his 793 known descendants. Morgan M. Sexton, husband of Malinda (Foley) Sexton (141) who about two months before his death told her of the early Engle settlers of Knox Co., Ky., naming George Engle's children, nearly all of his grandchildren, and whom many of them married. Laura (Brown) Campbell (1083) who secured much of the data which her husband had planned to furnish. Edith Engle (589), who collected many names of relatives living in Knox Co., Ky. Hadley Engle (591), who gave of his time to drive her car over the country roads of Knox Co., Ky., on visits to secure information from old inhabitants. Fred A. Engle (1615), who furnished the data for his grandmother's descendants (No. 129). John F. Dean, Mary Lou Randles, Alice (Ingraham) Skaggs, Margaret (Hale) Powell (103), Margaret (Engle) Bales (83), Velma (Judd) Minor (385), Roy Shepherd (1234), Virginia Shepherd (1236), Sallie (Engle) Sutton (397), and Roy Engle (1799), whose assistance is herewith asknowledged.

Elizabeth (Carriger) Vaught (648), of Elizabethton, Tenn., spent some time in research work in eastern Tenn., and collected much of the record for the Dugger branches of the family, (descendants of No. 4), containing about five hundred names.

Jessie (Tilden) Simpson (1991), of Denison, Tex., promptly secured the data for her great-grandfather's descendants (No. 34). She was one of the author's best cooperators.

Inez Reece (134), R.F.D., Butler, Tenn., furnished the records for her grandfather's descendants (No. 41).

Nathaniel Elliott (856), of Corbin, Ky., is entitled to much commendation for the fine way in which he assumed the work of collecting the names and dates of his grandmother's descendants (No. 54), since the author had discontinued further research work. Although a very busy man and postmaster at the time, he promptly secured and sent the records of more than four hundred of his relatives.

To the following relatives, also, the author is greatly indebted:—

Green Engle (152), R.F.D., Indian Creek, Ky.
Andrew Wells (288), R. F. D., Woodbine, Ky.
Sarah 'Sallie" (Hale) Dugger (978), R.F.D., Corbin, Ky.

INTRODUCTION

As time moves on there are many who wish to know something about their ancestors, who they were, where they lived, and where they came from. They wish to know what kind of people their ancestors and their descendants have been and what part they have taken in forming and supporting our government and sustaining a well ordered society. While we cannot know what the lives of future descendants will be, it is possible to learn much concerning those who have lived in the past. The lives of our ancestors are the foundation of ours today. When we know their history we can better know ourselves as well as others.

Why write a family history? What is the necessity for it? We surely owe it to our ancestors, if we have any kind of family pride to keep in print their names in proper groups together with their family records. If it is important that the Church and State should keep a careful record of their historical incidents and facts, it is equally important that the Family, the greatest of the three, should do so, for it lies at the very foundation of the others.

Daniel Webster said, "Those who do not look upon themselves as a link connecting the past with the future do not perform their duty to the world." The English Statesman Edmund Burke said, "A man who is not proud of his ancestry will never leave anything for which his posterity may be proud of him".

For a long time genealogy had been very much neglected until recent years when more interest has been shown by many people. Those who cannot trace their forebears back farther than their grandparents are unable to appreciate their ancestry and the work of those who paved the way for our American liberties and privileges. As our country becomes older, as family connections increase, and as the family names become more familiar in all the professions and trades, it is certainly important to each member of such a large family as ours to be able to trace the family back to the early history of the country when neighbors were far apart and the land was a wilderness. It is a great satisfaction to a person to know who his ancestors were, to what branch of the family he belongs, and how he stands related to every other member of the family.

Family records in old Bibles are becoming illegible, falling to pieces, or lost. This book will preserve these records of the family, and much local history, for posterity.

ORIGIN AND EARLY HISTORY OF THE ENGLES
And of the Country in Which They Lived

The earliest record of our progenitors located up to the present time was found through the second edition of "I. Daniel Rupp's Collection of Thirty Thousand Names of German, Swiss, Dutch, and other immigrants in Pennsylvania from 1727-1776; with a statement of the names of the ships, whence they sailed, and the date of their arrival at Philadelphia." Originally published in 1856, the compilation was a copy of the original lists of immigrants on file among the Colonial Records at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. Beginning on page 479, is an interpretation of names occurring in his book. Melchor Engle is our earliest known ancestor. MELCHOR is the original form of name, meaning a royal person, one of royalty. -ENGEL is interpreted as meaning a messenger, one who is sent.

A compilation by the Media Research Bureau on the name and the family of Engle contains the following: "The name of ENGLE OR ENGEL is believed to have been of German origin and is stated by some authorities to have been a corruption of the name applied to the race known as the "Angles". Others assert that it was taken from the ancient Scandinavian personal name of Ingold or Ingle. The name is found on ancient German records chiefly in the form of Engel, while in England it frequently became Ingal, Ingall, Ingle, Engall, or Engal and in America was most often recorded as Engell, Engel, Engels, Engles, and Engle, of which the form last mentioned is that most generally known today.

The Engel family of Germany was settled in the vicinity of Bremen before the seventeenth century and was prominent among the gentry of that place as early as the year 1656, being granted the honor of a coat of arms at that time. There was also a noble family of this name in Saxony before 1662 and at Mecklenburg about the same time. Other early families of the name were to be found in Tubingen, Nuremberg, Bale, Berne, or Bern, Vienna, and other parts of Germany and Austria, and are also recorded as being among the nobility of Sweden. There was also a family of the name of Engels, which was probably the same origin, in the Netherlands at an early date, and the name of Engl, which was undoubtedly of similar origin, was also to be found in Austria, one "Engl von und zu Wagrain" being listed among the knights and barons of the latter sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries.

It is generally believed that all of the Engles and Engels were of common origin at a remote period and that most of the American emigrants of the name were of immediate German ancestry. Although many of the American families were believed to have come from England to this country, they were also of German ancestry at a very slightly earlier date, there being record in England of many emigrants from Germany of the name in the latter seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.

On the whole the record of the Engels and Engles in America is that of a hardy, industrious, strong-minded, and shrewd race, while certain lines have displayed considerable artistic ability."

On page 64 of Rupp's Collection is a list containing the name of Michael Beyerle. The list is headed thus:

Sept. 5, 1730, Forty-five Palatines with their families,
one hundred and thirty persons, imported in the ship
Alexander and Ann, William Clymer, Master, from Rotterdam, last from Cowes.—Col. Rec. III. 386.

Speculation about the number of persons in Michael Beyerle's family is of no avail, other than that the list does not have immediately under it the names of males not sixteen years of age, as Mr. Rupp in his preface states is the plan of the book.

Michael Beyerle's name is next discovered in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. Among the records in the Court House at Lancaster, is an indenture dated October 18, 1850 and recorded in Deed Book 1, page 602, in which Michael Beyerle deeds to Melchor Engle. . ."he being the son-in-law of the said Michael Beyerle," a lot adjoining Philip Schutz which lot Michael Beyerle acquired by an indenture dated May 30, 1735 from James Hamilton, Esq. This deed is signed by Michael Beyerle in German. Following is a release or Quit claim from Catharine Beyerle.

The above record is the earliest found showing purchase of land or property by Michael Beyerle. It also establishes the parentage of Melchor Engle's wife, whose maiden name was Magdalena Beyerle. As it was not unusual for immigrants to stay around Philadelphia until they could decide where they wanted to settle, this may be the first land which Michael Beyerle bought. He must have prospered, for he purchased land again July 19, 1739 and May 2, 1740.

Melchor Engle, the first of our Engle forebears of whom we have record, was doubtless an immigrant from the Palatinate. By an act of Parliament in 1740, Great Britain required Foreign Protestants to be naturalized as subjects of Great Britain—they having resided here for seven years and upwards, etc. In the Pennsylvania Archives, 2nd series, volume 11, page 309 is a record of the naturalization of Melchor Ingle of Lancaster County on August 21, 1743 at a Supreme Court held in Philadelphia. Melchor Engle, of an age to be declared a naturalized subject in 1743, was probably born about 1720 or before. Whether he had come to this country with his parents, his stepfather and his mother, or alone is not known.

The given name of Melchor Engle's mother was discovered in a most unusual way. In Deed Book DD page 235 of the Lancaster County, Pennsylvania records is an indenture which reads thus: "This indenture made this 10th day of April in the year of our Lord 1746 between Michael Beyerle of the Borough of Lancaster in the Province of Pennsylvania, Yeoman, and Catherine, his wife of the one part and Melchor Engle of the County of Lancaster and Province aforesaid, Saddler, son of the said Catherine by a former husband, of the other part, witnesseth that the said Michael Beyerle and Catherine his wife for and in consideration of the natural love and affection they bear unto the said Melchor Engle and for his advancement in the world the sum of 100 pounds lawful money. . ." (See copy of deed. Refer to contents, page 7).

Whether Michael Beyerle's second marriage to widow Catherine Engle was in the Palatinate or in Pennsylvania is not known. Michael Beyerle's full name was John Michael Beyerle, Sr. This is ascertained from the fact that John Michael Beyerle and Catherine were sponsors for the baptism of Michael's grandson, John Michael, born October 21, 1748 son of Frederick Ludewig Beyerle and Eva Marie. This record appears in the Baptismal records of the Trinity Lutheran Church at Lancaster, Pennsylvania.

The Trinity Lutheran Church records at Lancaster also show names and dates for other of the Engle and Beyerle families. George, son of Melchoir Engle and Magdalena, born April 19, 1750 baptized April 22, 1750, sponsors

George Reitenbach and Dorothea. This record is cited in volume III page 202 of the Pennsylvania German Society. Friedrich, son of Melchoir Engel and Magdalena born April 3, 1749, baptized April 8, 1749, sponsors Philip Schutz and Justina Magdalena. The burial records of Trinity Church show that Friedrich Engle died April 9, 1749.

The same records show that Melchoir Engel and Magdalena were sponsors for Magdalena, daughter of Friederich Ludwig Beyerle and Eva Maria, born January 11, 1751, and baptized January 13, 1751. Other records are: Anna Maria, born February 3, 1751 baptized February 10, 1751, daughter of Jacob Frederich Dochterman and Anna Susanna, sister of Melchor Engle, with sponsors Johann Michael Bayerle and Anna Maria. Also Maria Elizabeth, daughter of Andrew Beyerle and wife, with sponsors Hans Michael Beyerle and Anna Marie. In another record Michael Bayerle Junr. and Anna Marie were sponsors. As noted, variation in the spelling of names is not unusual in early records. The burial list of Trinity Church gives the death of Eva Maria, wife of Ludwig Beyerle, as September 27, 1760 aged 38 years 4 months.

John Michael Beyerle, Sr. seemed to be a comparatively active man in the community of Lancaster as late as September 19, 1752 upon which date he and his wife Catrina transferred property to Lodwig Beyerly and Melchor Engle, Saddlers. Following this date there is nothing about him or his wife Catharine either in the court records or the Trinity Lutheran Church burial records. It may be that they went with his daughter and her son, Magdalena and Melchor Engle, to Frederick County, Virginia, in 1753-1754 where Melchor Engle received a patent of land. Or they may have gone with Andrew to the vicinity of Pittsburgh or with Ludwig down in the Cumberland Valley, where it is thought these two sons migrated.

Michael Beyerle, Sr. left some children in Germany according to the will of his son John Michael Beyerle, Jr. dated November 24, 1766, proven December 22, 1766, and recorded in Will Book B volume 1 page 441, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. Michael Beyerle, Jr. was a tavern-keeper of Lancaster Borough at the time of his death. He was survived by his wife Anna Maria, but apparently, by no children. Relatives named in the will were his brother, Martin Beyerle in Germany; his sister, Anne Maria in Germany; his brother, Andrew Beyerle in America; his wife, Anna Maria; Maria Elizabeth Beyerle, daughter of Andrew Beyerle; and children (no names stated) of his step-sister Susanna, wife of Frederick Dochterman.

An abstract of Anna Maria Beyerle's will recorded in Lancaster County Will Book F volume 1 page 80, gives further information about Melchor Engle's relatives. Named in the will are Susanna Dochterman, wife of Frederick Dochterman, deceased, (sister of Melchor Engle); five children of Frederick Dochterman: Anna Mary, Rosina, Christina, Frederick, and children of Catharine, deceased (Adam Weaver had married Catharine Dochterman February 7, 1772); Ann Mary Bausman and Anna Rosina Bausman (daughters of Elizabeth Bausman whose father, Andrew Beyerle was included in the will of John Michael Beyerle, Jr., and who had married Michael Bausman August 13, 1769 according to the Lancaster Trinity Church record).

It is of interest to note something of the life of the early German settlers in Pennsylvania, and of their background in Germany, particularly in the Palatinate, and the causes of their migrations to America.

When William Penn received the grant of land now known as Pennsylvania he immediately began planning for a colony on the bank of the Delaware which would provide a refuge for his oppressed fellow Quakers. Penn promised that no person in his colony who believed in God should be molested of his "persuasion or practice." Thus the colony was thrown open to Christians of all denominations, and soon became the asylum of the distressed Protestants of Europe.

The Germans first established a settlement in Pennsylvania at Germantown in 1683. Among the names of early settlers at Germantown appear the names of Jacob Engell and Paul Engell both of whom were naturalized by an Act of Assembly, 1708-1709. Jacob Engel owned land in Worcester township in Philadelphia County. Paul Engel is listed as owning 50 acres of land in Germantown. Their names appear in Appendix XVI p. 470-478 of Rupp's "Thirty Thousand Names of Immigrants". It is estimated that previous to 1702 not more than 200 families had come to the colony, and in 1710 the Germans did not exceed 3,000 in number. But by 1729 between forty and fifty thousand Germans had left their native country for the English colonies. In the year of 1749 alone, 12,000 Germans landed in Philadelphia. Among these early immigrants were many of the name of Engel. Most of the German immigrants were listed as Palatines, and the cause of their immigration en masse is attributed to several factors.

The Lower Palatinate of which Heidelberg was the capital in the 16th century was the center from which Martin Luther began to disseminate his doctrines. Under Louis V and his successor the utmost freedom of religious opinion was permitted. Frederick III during his rule from 1557-1576 also supported the Protestant cause, and it was he who introduced and professed the reformed religion of Calvanism. But in the century following the Reformation the Palatinate suffered from continuous conflict which had its origin in the mutual jealousy of Catholics, Lutherans, and Calvinists, which was ended with the close of the Thirty Years' War. This war, beginning as a struggle between Roman Catholics and Protestants finally became a struggle for political ascendency in Europe. On the one side were Austria, nearly all the Roman Catholic princes of Germany and Spain, and on the other side at different times, Denmark, Sweden, France, and the Protestant princes of Germany. The Palatinate was their common battleground.

In the Cambridge Modern History volume 4, page 417-424, is found a most graphic summary of the plight of the German people during this period. "After a century of religious conflict which ended with the exhausting struggle of the Thirty Years' War concluded with the Treaty of Westphalia in 1648, German national life was broken and the land devastated. The Lower Palatinate was little better than a desert, so utterly had war, anarchy, and emigration changed the face of the 'garden' of Germany. In particular territories the loss of population had been enormous. In the Lower Palatinate it is estimated only one-tenth of the population survived. Notwithstanding the terrible sufferings which the War had inflicted upon the unprotected peasantry, in the greater part of the Empire, this unfortunate class were by no means relieved from the imposition of taxes and burden of services. To these evils was added the insecurity of life and property due to vandalism as a consequence of the war. During more than a generation after the war agriculture was reduced to an almost hopeless depression, and the condition of the peasantry was lowered to a level at which it remained for the better part of two centuries. The effects of the war were hardly less disastrous upon the middle or burger class, and upon the trade and industry to which the members of that class had primarily owed their prosperity. The population of the towns was diminished greatly."

Scarcely had the Palatinate begun to recover from a century of destruction, when is was again laid waste by the French in 1673-79, and was again made the battleground of the armies of the French King and his German, English, and Dutch foes. In 1680 the troops of Louis XIV took Heidelberg and devastated the whole of the Palatinate.

In addition to having been brought to the verge of national ruin in conflict with foreign troops and in civil war, the Palatinates continued to suffer from religious persecutions. Religious equality and toleration of minorities had not been fully secured by the rights of the Peace of Westphalia. The rights acquired by the Protestants were often abridged by the arbitrary acts of Catholic Princes. There was much grievous persecution of the Calvanists in the latter 1690's under the Newburgh Elector, John William. The intervention of Prussia and Brunswick in 1705 gave them some relief. This persecution was followed by the war of the Spanish Succession which was opened on the Rhine frontier in 1702, and lasted until 1714 ending with the Peace of Utrecht.

To the damage of war and religious persecution was added a hard winter in 1708-09, and a plague in 1709-10 which destroyed over a third of the population.

Meanwhile in 1709-1710 about 13,000 Palatinates, men, women, and children, comprised of husbandmen, tradesmen, school teachers, and ministers emigrated to England owing to French oppression and the continued persecution by their Prince, John William. Inducements were held forth by the government of Queen Anne to these poor people to come to England from whence they were to be transported to Her Majesty's colonies.

The Palatinate continued to suffer from the ravages of war and for many years the people sought new homes in more prosperous places. In 1720 the capital was moved from Heidelberg to Mannheim. In 1742 a period of prosperity began under Charles Theodore. When, in 1777 he became elector of Bavaria the Palatinate was united with it, the capital being Munich. Under the Treaty of Vienna in 1815 the Palatinate was divided between Bavaria, Hesse-Darmstadt, and Prussia. Part of it remains a province of Bavaria, with the seat of government at Speyer.

An excellent description of the life of the Palatine people is found in Thomas J. Wertenbaker's "The Founding of American Civilization" pages 256-345, upon which the following paragraphs are based.

The Rhine Palatinate, the homeland of so many thousands of emigrants to the American Colonies in the eighteenth century included not only the prosperous, thickly populated Rhine valley, but also the Hardt mountain region, the fruitful southwest highlands and the hill country around Zweibrucken which were a part of the Westrich, the marsh lowlands of the west, and the mountain land to the north.

The soil of the Rhine Valley is one of the richest agricultural regions in Germany. For centuries it has continued to yield its abundant harvests of grain, fruit, and vegetables. The uplands are covered with pines and other soft woods, and have been centers for lumbering and the making of wooden articles.

The Palatines who for twelve centuries have retained possession of the Rhine Valley and the Palatinate uplands, according to Mr. Wertenbaker, were the product of two of the most warlike of the ancient Germanic tribes. In the fourth century of the Christian era this region was the prize contended for by Romans and Alemanni, a confederacy of several German tribes from the middle Elba region. In the end the Alemanni prevailed in the fierce struggle, and took both banks of the Rhine. In the next century however, they in turn became the object of a fierce assault by the Franks, a confederacy of tribes dwelling on the banks of the lower Rhine and the Weser, who in 496 conquered the Alemanni. The more unyielding of the nation retired to Switzerland, while those who remained on the Rhine mingled with the Franks to form a new Frankish-Alemannic racial group.

The basic unit of economic and social organization in the Palatinate was the agricultural village. The residences, stables, and barns of the peasants were clustered in the village proper, under the shadow of the church tower, while the arable lands or meadows lay around about. Each holder had his parcel or strip of field, and at dawn, shouldering his hoe or scythe, went out to plant or till or reap. But the Palatinate, although so distinctly the home of the agricultural village was not without its isolated farms.

The capacity for unremitting toil of the Palatine, his readiness to expend the greatest labor and time upon his little holding, made him a successful agriculturist. At the break of dawn he was at work in the fields, his barefoot wife often at his side, and only with the falling of daylight would he return to his home.

In addition to the waving fields of grain found in the Rhine Valley, were the vineyards stretching up the slopes toward the wooded summit of the Hardt mountains. The peasant usually had his own cows, hogs, and poultry, and often his beehives.

The German peasant, for centuries accustomed to laboring early and late for a bare existence, accepted wars, robbery, oppressions, and burdensome taxes as he accepted drought or pestilence. His wants were few, his tastes simple, and he loved his home and fields. But when foreign troops laid his home in ashes and slaughtered his cattle, while he suffered from the heartless oppression of the princes and from religious presecution, he gathered up his few meager belongings and sadly, though hopefully, sought a new homeland in America.

Most of the German immigrants settled in Pennsylvania, but numerous groups went to New York, New Jersey, Virginia, and the Carolinas. It was a fertile region in Pennsylvania which the Germans selected for their new home. There were many points of similarity between this region and climate in America and that of the Rhine Palatinate. There were mountains and lowlands. The price of a dozen acres of land in the Palatinate purchased a hundred or perhaps three hundred acres of fertile land in Pennsylvania.

The success of the Germans in America is attributed to their training in husbandry, to their thrift, and to their capacity for hard and unremitting labor. Since the basis of agricultural life in Germany had been the village, the change to independent farm life affected the lives of the people greatly. Each farm became a completely self-sustaining unit. Household industry—spinning, weaving, shoemaking, tailoring—became more important than ever. It was difficult to foster religion and to establish schools with distances so great. But the religious zeal of the Germans caused them to establish their Lutheran and Reformed churches and some schools were maintained.

The first task of a new arrival was to convert the unbroken forest into a farm. His home was usually a log cabin which he built after the fashion of the log houses of the German forest regions. Most of the houses were built of squared logs.

German fathers and sons became not only husbandmen, but artisans. They had their smithy. They had looms, spinning wheels, cider-presses, and worms for making wine. They made shoes and harness. The work of the women was not less varied. They prepared the flax for making cloth; they dipped candles; they dried apples and peaches; they milked the cows, churned, and made cheese. Often they worked in the fields, bare of foot.

The Germans who settled in Pennsylvania were merchants, craftsmen, and yeomen, as well as peasants. Few were men of wealth. Most of those who came in the earlier days settled near Philadelphia, but by 1716 they began to penetrate the wilderness north and west of the city for sixty to seventy miles. At Oley one of the early settlers was an Engel. After reaching America most of the craftsmen deserted their vocations to become farmers.

Our forebearer, Michael Beyerle, was a yeoman. His son, Ludwig, and son-in-law, Melchor Engle, were saddlers. His son, John Michael, was a tavern-keeper. Michael Beyerle Sr. first purchased lots in 1735, at Lancaster, Pennsylvania, then a frontier village of log houses. His children and their families also seemed to have lived in this village rather than on farms, although all of them owned boundaries of land near Lancaster.

Life on the frontier up to the Revolutionary war had its many hardships. Lancaster County, which was formed in 1729 from Chester County, was the long-time home of the Indian. Inhabiting this region were the Susquehannocks, the Shawanese, the Ganawese or Conoys, the Nanticokes, and the Lenni Lenapes or Delaware Indians, according to H. F. Eshleman in his Indians of Lancaster County. They called this region the "Chanastocka" or Conestogoe. Those Indians lived in peace with the newcomers, respecting William Penn's treaty. While other colonies had cheated the Indians and robbed them of their lands, had sold them rum and guns, made treaties only to break them, and had waged war against them, the Quaker colony had shown fairness and kindness to them and had adhered to the Great Treaty both in letter and in spirit.

However, friendly feelings between the Indians and settlers came to an end as some of the immigrants tempted by the fertility of the soil, began clearing land and building cabins on land belonging to the Indians. The complaints of the Indians grew loud. They were driven off, only to return later, tomahawk in hand, to seek revenge upon the white settlers. Meanwhile the French began to occupy the Ohio valley and to incite the Indians against the English, bringing on the French and Indian war. It was with Braddock's defeat at Fort Duquesne that the Pennsylvania frontier was opened to the Indian terror in spite of the efforts of young George Washington. The horror of warwhoops, cabins in flames, and fresh scalps hanging from belts of the Indians continued without abatement until the victory at Bushy Run in 1763.

It was in 1754 that Melchor Engle first purchased land in Frederick County in the Province of Virginia. The grant of land to Melger Ingle in the State Land Office at Richmond, Book H, page 412, was received from Lord Fairfax, proprietor of the Northern Neck of Virginia. The tract of 397 acres was on Elk Branch. (See copy of deed. Refer to contents, page 7).

Melchor Engle purchased 105 acres of land six months later—June 4, 1754, recorded in Deed Book 3, page 311, Frederick County. Meanwhile he continued to own his property in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. He sold 121 acres of his 225 acre tract in Lancaster County May 14, 1754, and again, February 17, 1755 he disposed of more. On March 1, 1757 he sold a town lot in Lancaster. Then on August 24, 1759 he and his wife Magdalena personally appeared before a Justice in Lancaster and signed for 280 pounds of money received for a lot. Another piece of property was sold October 29, 1759.

On January 12, 1760 Melchor Engle made his last will, which was probated April 1, 1760. (See copy of will. Refer to contents, page 7). In his will he mentions his wife Mary and five sons. In the paragraph above it will be noted that less than five months previously he and his wife Magdalena personally appeared before a Justice in Lancaster and signed for money receceived. It is logical to conclude, since it was not unusual among the Germans to omit the first given name, that his wife Magdalena had the name Mary Magdalena.

Mary survived her husband about nine years. In Deed Book 13 page 83 of Frederick County, there is a record dated July 31, 1769, of the division of her part of the land among the three brothers, John, George, and William, in accordance with the will. Philip and Michael had been willed land outright by their father.

Melchor Engle had come to Frederick County, Virginia while it was still a part of the wilderness. The first settlers of the Upper Shenandoah Valley had come from Pennsylvania, following either a buffalo or an Indian trail to the head of the Valley near Winchester as early as 1732. From 1740 until after the Revolutionary War this migration of Scotch-Irish and Germans continued, with many of the hardy frontiermen pushing their way on down into the Holston Valley and into the Cumberland settlements of Tennessee, and toward the end, through Cumberland Gap into Kentucky. Among those thus to migrate were sons of Melchor Engle, Michael, John, and George.

At the time Melchor Engle came to Frederick County in 1753-54, Winchester, the county-seat, was still a frontier village and known as Frederick Town. George Washington referred to it in his diary while on his first surveying trip for Lord Fairfax in the Northern Neck of Virginia. In his diary dated March 16, 1748, Washington said, "We set out early and finished about one o'clock and then Travell'd up to Frederick Town where we . . . took a Review of the Town and thence return'd to our Lodgings where we had a good Dinner prepar'd for us Wine and Rum Punch in Plenty and a good Feather Bed with clean Sheets which was a very agreeable regale."

When in 1755, during the French and Indian War, General Braddock was surprised and defeated by an ambuscade of Indians, terror overcame the frontier. The French, with no British to withstand them might attack in force. The Indians, encouraged by the French victory, turned against the frontier English and took their revenge for wrongs done them in forcing them from their lands, by killing and scalping in a most horrible manner .

Tradition is that Melchor Engle built a fort around a never failing spring at the head of Elk Branch in Frederick County. It is said that around this fort was a strong stockade which enclosed about an acre of ground.

The descendants of Melchor Engle can imagine with what hardiness and fortitude he set about to protect his family from the ravages of the Indians during the first years at his new home in the wilderness.

It is not known when George Engle and his brothers, John and Michael, left Berkeley County in search of new homes. It is likely that these brothers, hearing of the vast boundaries of virgin forests which were available at the southern end of the Valley of Virginia, determined to seek new homes there. John and Michael continued to pay taxes in Berkeley County as late as 1787. It was George who probably led the way down into the new country in the late 1780's or in the 1790's to the vicinity of the Watauga settlement. This isolated community has long since been famed for its method of self-government at a time when it was too far away to receive the attention of either the governing body of Virginia or North Carolina.

It was during still hazardous times that these three sons of Melchor Engle migrated to the Watauga settlement in Washington County, North Carolina, but soon to become a part of the new state of Tennessee. The settlers of East Tennessee had suffered greatly at the hands of the Indians during the whole of the Revolutionary war. Even after the close of the war, the Indians, accustomed to raid upon the white settlers, continued their attacks upon the scattered settlements. Many are the records of attacks upon individuals and upon cabin-homes throughout all the wilderness territory of Virginia, Tennessee, and Kentucky during the 1790's when the three Engle brothers journeyed with their families to the southern frontier.

The name of John Engle appears as a Witness."

JOHN ENGLE

Among the Revolutionary War records in the Va. State Archives, several references are given for the service of John Engle. Among the Pay Rolls for the 7th and 8th Regiment is one (No. 173—1) for "Captain William Darke's Company from the twenty-fifth day of May, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-six, till the thirtieth day of April, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-seven, inclusive" showing that John Engle, Corp'l., served 11 months, 6 days, for which he received 24 pounds, 12 shillings and 9 pence. Pay Roll 179—2 shows that John Engle, Sargt. of Captain Kirkpatrick's Company, 8th Va. Regiment commanded by Col. Abra. Bowman served for 1 month and 8 days for which he received $8.00.

Again in Pay Roll 170—4, John Engle Sarg't. soldier in the Infantry received by Gen. Morgan, was paid on April 9, 1783, the sum of 8 pounds, 6 shillings and 8 pence. His service is listed in Reddy's "West Virginia Revolutionary Ancestors" as from Berkeley County. The Public Claims of Berkeley County, Va. found in the State Archives at Richmond, Certificate No. 359, contains the following: "We do hereby certify that there is due unto John Engle & c for the use of the State of Virginia, agreeable to an Act of Assembly, entitled, An Act for procuring a supply of Provisions & c".

TRADITION

Quoting from the manuscript left by Mrs. Jessie (Engle) Johnson, No. 208, Part I:

"According to tradition, it was on Elk Branch Creek in what is now Jefferson Co., W. Va., that the first settlers pitched their homes in the Shenandoah Valley and earlier than 1707 built their fort around a never failing spring at the head of Elk Branch. This fort, a strong stockade, enclosed about one acre of ground; part of its foundation was exposed in 1900. About a stone's throw from the old spring stands what is believed to be the oldest burial ground in the Shenandoah Valley. There stood in this cemetery a monument of red sandstone which had been quarried near by. It measures five inches thick, twenty-two inches wide, and four and one-half feet high. This stone was taken up and shipped to the State Historical Society at Charleston in 1901 or 1902, as they wished to preserve it on account of its antiquity.. A small marble slab was put in its place. This stone marked the grave of a German girl. Professors McCleland and Schele DeVere who held the chair of Modern Languages in the University of Virginia, translated the words on this monument of the German girl; the letters were English and the words were German.

'Katrina Bierlin
Born 1686, died 1707.'
Below is a stanza of an old German hymn.
'Oh how blessed is Jesus
He is the light of my eyes,
And joy of my heart forever.'

Besides the inscription, it has upon the top of it, a heart pierced with a cross. At the bottom is a skull and crossbones, and an hourglass. Tradition says that on one occasion when the settlers were driven into the fort it was surrounded by a large number of hostile Indians, and one of the settlers, supposed to be this young lady, died in the fort. The murderous savages, by their presence, prevented the burial of the corpse, and two young men stole out with it at night under cover of darkness. They had just finished when they were fired upon by the Indians; one was killed and the other ran back into the fort, died, and was buried inside the Fort.

"It was near this fort the old Elk Branch Church stood, which was supposed to be nearly as old as the fort and cemetery. The late Dr. John Scott, many years pastor of Elk Branch Church, when writing his notes on this historic place says: 'A fact confirming the great antiquity of this settlement and fort, is found in the records Ecclesiastical, which I have examined and are unquestionably authentic. This old congregation sent appeals to the Presbytery of New Castle and Dorregal for supply of Ministers in 1732, and doubtless earlier. They were able to support a Minister a few years later. The Indian fort, the German Epitaph, and the old Church are the strongest support that here is the first settlement of white men west of the Blue Ridge Mountains' ".

CIVIL WAR EXPERIENCES

The author made an effort to secure an account of the experience of some member of our family who served in France during the World War, 1917-1818, but no one wanted to talk about it. Most of this genealogy was compiled during the depression which followed the World War, and now (April, 1940) as it is ready to go to press, the leading world politicians are again in another fit of insanity. The author has often wondered how the world reached its present height of civilization since about every generation sacrifices many of its best young men on the field of battle. The excerpts which follow are given for the purpose of showing the hellishness of war.

The following excerpt is taken from a manuscript written by Jessie (Engle) Johnson, No. 208, Part I:

"The children who lived at Harper's Ferry during that period went through enough to make them nervous wrecks for the balance of their lives. Some of the officers whom we knew would have to come and stay at night to protect us when regiments were passing through the place. Harpers Ferry was between two fires a great many times, with cannon balls and bomb shells passing over us; yards would be covered with them after the battles. One day during the 'Battle of Four Days and Four Nights' at Harpers Ferry, Pearson, the scout for the Union Army, came to our home. His clothing was riddled with bullets and he had received a slight wound; he lay down in the yard and asked for water. I carried him food and water, and afterward the Federal soldiers evacuated the place. The battle started on a memorable 4th of July. We had gone to the Methodist Church, the only one in the place that could be used for services, when one of Cole's cavalrymen came galloping up saying 'The Rebels are coming'; so all had to turn back to their homes; and before we reached home the firing had commenced. The Lutheran Church was turned into a hospital. From the other side of the breastworks, which was near our home, they brought two or three into our house. One man was about 18 and kept begging for pen and paper, and when they were handed him he could not use them or tell who he was. When the Federal troops evacuated and crossed the river into Maryland they took their dead and wounded with them; this young man died while crossing the river. Then the Confederate soldiers took possession of the place. So it was with unfortunate Harpers Ferry, first one and then the other occupied the town; the citizens would be called Rebels and then Yankees; so it was during all the war. The Confederate soldiers filled our yard and mother begged them not to fire from there. Some of the Federal soldiers talked of shelling the house, but Major McGrath, a friend of the family, told them 'For God's sake don't do it; only women and children are in it'. Several houses in Bolivar had been struck and were burning. Women and children were running, in danger of being struck, some fainting, all crying. Major Young's house next to ours was hit with a bomb which tore up three rooms. Our dining room in the basement was full of women and children; we had to keep it dark for fear a light would draw fire from the mountain on the Maryland side. One cannot portray with words this awful scene."

"At one time our house was surrounded by cannon. They built little brick tents in rows with brick from buildings that had been destroyed. Patterson's Army, the 34th Mass. Reg. and the Ky. battery, stayed there quite a while. Capt. Glassie, Lieut. Troy, and Sergeant Secrist, all were fine gentlemen. Often regiments would pass through Harpers Ferry, and one had to be most careful; all kinds of men were in them; they would take bread from the stove that was baking, or do most anything. I saw a whole army of the Potomac pass along the Maryland side, and a regiment of the Klu Klux Klan. I remember I was so frightened at them; they were dressed in black with white collars and cuffs."

Next to the massacre in Limestone Cove, Carter Co., Tenn., during the Civil War, in shocking cruelty, was the one described below in part in the excerpt taken from "Adventures of Daniel Ellis—The Union Guide", pages 105-109, published by Harper & Brothers, New York, 1867.

The signs of the times in Carter County now presaged nothing but danger for the Union men who had been driven into the mountains. A great deal of rain had fallen, which had raised the waters very high rendering it useless now to start with a company to Kentucky, as I well knew that we could not cross the intermediate rivers. Day after day was spent by the anxious scouters patiently waiting for the waters to subside. The month of March, with its cold bleak winds, had now arrived, and we had not been able to get off yet, and some of the men whom I had agreed to conduct through to Kentucky had the misfortune of being captured and cruelly murdered by the rebels. The infamous men who perpetrated these murders belonged to Polk's regiment, accompanied by some of the home guards of Johnson County, who had been ranging all over the country for conscripts, taking these home guards along with them for guides. The names of the poor fellows who were killed at the time referred to were James Taylor, Samuel Tatum, Alfred Kite, Alexander Dugger [No. 183 Part II] and David Shuffield. They were all together when the rebels discovered them, they being on one side of Watauga River and the rebels on the other. When they first observed these men, they at once dashed across the river on their horses and surrounded them on a small ridge. * * *

"When the rebels first fired, poor Taylor surrendered; they continued to shoot at him, while he begged them to treat him as a prisoner, but, instead of this, one of these incarnate devils ran up and soon silenced him, by shooting the top of his head off with a musket. * * * They then took from his mangled person a very fine watch and a considerable sum of money. Tatam was killed nearly at the same time that Taylor was, he being first wounded in the shoulder, and then dispatched with great cruelty. The other three men ran some distance, while the rebels were shooting at them as fast as they could; at length they surrendered, and commenced imploring for mercy. * * * In vain these poor supplicating prisoners told their reckless and infuriated captors that they had done nothing deserving death, and were only trying to keep out of the Southern army. * * * Their hands were tied behind them, and they were taken to a bending sapling and hung. * * * Two of the poor fellows, before they were hung, begged hard for a short time to pray; but even this privilege was not allowed them. The other one had been severely wounded at the beginning of the bloody affray, and was not able to talk. While they were suspended by their necks, and before life was extinct, they were treated with the greatest brutality, by their reckless murderers, beating them with their guns. Captain Roby Brown, a citizen of Johnson County, Tenn., and one of the home guards in that county, enjoyed himself very much at this miserable feast of blood. * * *

In addition to the above description, we quote from a "History of the Thirteenth Regiment, Tenn. Vol. Cavalry, U. S. A.", page 357:

"Alexander Dugger, [No. 183 Part II], one of the men who was hanged, was related to and had been raised by Mrs. Margaret Dugger, a widow, who owned the farm on which the killing and hanging were done. She was a highly respected old lady, was a land holder and had been a slave owner. She belonged to a prominent family and was noted for her kind and charitable disposition and was loved and respected by all who knew her. The writer was the recipient of her motherly care when but a small boy, and knows whereof he speaks. At the time of the tragedy she was far advanced in years and was known as "Aunt Peggy" Dugger. She was greatly attached to her foster son, Alex. When the soldiers got every thing in readiness to hang him one of them rode down to her house only a short distance away and invited her to come and see her Lincolnite son hanged."

SCENERY AT HARPER'S FERRY

The following excellent word picture was copied from a manuscript written by Jessie (Engle) Johnson, No. 208, Part I:

"The scenery at Harper's Ferry is perhaps the most romantic and picturesque in America. I think no mountain heights in the world could give a more varied and beautiful picture as we take in the charms and understand them, when looking at the gorge through which bursts the combined waters of the majestic Potomac, River of Swans, and the beautiful Shenandoah, Dancing Daughters of the Stars, as the Indians styled these lovely streams. No matter where one stands on 'Camp Hill', the scenery is beyond description; and who knows more of it than the writer who was reared there. The grandest of all when the sun bursts majestically in all its glory through the mountains and over the rivers where its rays are reflected on the waters. No painter has ever or ever will do justice to such a beautiful scene.

'Marriage of the Rivers.'

The Potomac a bachelor on his way to the sea
Met the fair Shenandoah and asked her his bride to be,
And there amid Virginia's hills and Maryland's rugged heights
They took their vows and pledged their troth and were made one for life.

On one side of the town is Maryland Heights and the other is Loudoun Heights, which are very majestic looking. Maryland Heights is about three thousand feet above sea level. Loudoun Heights is not so high. On the Maryland side nearly at the top of the mountain above the rugged cliff is a large stone with a face upon it. This has always been called George Washington Face, which was chiseled by nature. Then just below the ancient cemetery is the historic "Jefferson Rock" from which Jefferson made his speech when he was running for the Presidency; and he said at that time 'It was worth a voyage across the Atlantic to witness the scenery at Harpers Ferry'. Tradition says he wrote his notes of Virginia upon this rock and also cut his name upon it. This rock is a most wonderful freak of nature, and is loved by the inhabitants for its wonderful history. It is composed of several huge rocks piled one on the other, though all seem to be one rock. One immense stone which lies beside this rock is said to have been thrown from it by a Captain Henry, who did not like Jefferson, so he ordered his men to roll it aside; it is now supported by pillars of brown stone and granite. Thousands of names for generations have been cut upon this stone. It lies on the south side of the old grave yard overlooking the Shenandoah River. Many thousands of people have visited this historic rock. Standing on this rock one is in West Virginia; looking across the Shenandoah River is Virginia; and across the Potomac river is Maryland. Besides looking into three states from this rock one can see into four counties. Eagle Rock and the pinnacle are also great places of interest.

"In the year 1799 there was some trouble between France and the United States; the latter organized a military force, the 10th regiment, commanded by Alexander Hamilton, who was sent to Harper's Ferry. The land upon which he camped was a hill, and ever since then it has been called 'Camp Hill'. On the highest spot of Camp Hill stands a brick residence with its old Colonial portico and massive columns. It was built by the Government about the time the armory was built there, and is known as Tip Top house. The lovely yard had flower beds, cone shaped arborvitae trees, tall poplars, and all kinds of rare exquisite flowers. On one side of the portico was a climbing rose, and on the other, a wistaria. The walk from the gate was bordered with well trimmed boxwood. There was a walk of flag stones to the basement on the other side and up to the great grass mound over the cistern; some steps went up to the mound and an immense square stone over the top of it; these, too were built by the government, and were the largest in Harpers Ferry. This place on moon light nights looked like enchanted ground with its trees and rustic seats.

"This was the home of Philip and Sarah Ann Engle (No. 44, Part I and their children and Philip's sister, Mary. We lived in Hill Top house for many many years, our many relatives coming and going and we visiting them; parties, dances, and picnics that would go the rounds. These picnics and parties were select and most all who attended them were friends and relatives. Our relatives were legion, and something was going on all the time for enjoyment among them. What delightful sleighing party rides in winter! I well remember one sleighing party at Mr. Hinkle's, the snow became so deep that many had to stay over night. We didn't get home until the next evening. The grand balls that were given at Harpers Ferry were generally at the hotel, and what grand bands of music. Major George Leiland of New York would generally lead these balls. Most of the early people of Harpers Ferry were old prominent families.

Harpers Ferry has turned out more prominent men than any other place of its size in America."

A university for colored people now occupies a good part of "Camp Hill", and among its buildings is the old Engine House of the Government Armory which stood down town on the river bank, and in which John Brown was captured; many old relics can be seen there. Hill Top house has been remodeled and enlarged into a tourist hotel, which is a very attractive place. "In 1747 Robert Harper, for whom the town is named, an architect, born in Oxford, England, came by "The Hole" on his way to Winchester, Va., in which place he had contracted to erect some buildings. He became infatuated with the scenery, purchased a squatter's claim, settled, and ran a ferry from shore to shore of the Potomac for many years." His old brick home is still occupied as a residence, 1936.

The bold face small letters preceding the names both on the chart and the plan below are for reference here only. The bold face capital letters following some of the names are their index letters. All those whose names appear in the first and second generations on the chart were born in Germany, and those in the third generation, in America.

It is reasonable to suppose that their second son Michael was named after Magdalena's father, and it is not improbable that one of the other sons was named after Melchor's father. The names Philip, John, William, George, James, Joseph, Anna, Mary, Catharine, Elizabeth, and many others are common family names, and to a lesser degree Michael, Frederick, and others. All the earlier names in the family have carried down through all the succeeding generations, with one outstanding exception, the name of Melchor, our earliest known ancestor. Not a single known descendant of Melchor Engle, out of 7430 listed in this book, has been named Melchor. Any child or parent should be proud of that name. The name is pronounced Melker.

John settled in Washington County, Tennessee, and died there, leaving no heirs. He had one child who died without issue. Michael also settled in Washington County, and it is believed he died there. He had several children, but at the time the information was received the author had discontinued all research work. The above children of Melchor and Magdalena Engle, A, B, C, D, E, F, form the first generation shown on Chart No. 2.

KEY

The abbreviations used in this genealogy have the following meaning:

b	born	unm	unmarried
m	married	Co.	mostly for county, sometimes company
d	died	res	residence (mostly for living descendants)
d.y.	died young	i.r.c.	ignored repeated calls for information
abt	about	n.f.r.	no further record was secured

How to trace your family lineage: Note first that all names of heads of families are placed about the middle of the line in heavy type. It is always the lineal blood descendant, whether male or female, which appears first and the person or persons to whom married which follow directly beneath. To the left of the name of the blood descendant is his or her serial or index number. To the extreme right is a letter in parenthesis. These letters in alphabetical order indicate the married brothers and sisters of an individual family. To the right of this letter is an asterisk or a small letter v also in parenthesis; these signs indicate first cousins,—that is, all those followed consecutively with an asterisk indicate a group or family of first cousins, and likewise those followed with the letter v are another group or family of first cousins, but who are removed one or more times from the preceding group, since the names are arranged in their proper order as to birth and families, by generations.

Directly beneath the heads of the family is the biographical information which was secured. Following this are the given names of the children with their serial numbers, birth, marriage, and death dates. Below these is the biography, if any, of the unmarried children.

Wherever a birth, marriage, or death date, or name, was not secured, the space was left blank for the purpose of being filled in by those who may wish to preserve a complete and accurate record of their family to pass on to their children. This can be done with a steady hand and a fine pointed (accountant's) pen, and it is strongly recommended for the sake of future descendants.

Every known marriage is indicated by the letter m following the birth date. Where this occurs the child's call name, initial, and surname, and serial number assigned, are carried forward in numerical order to another page where this person appears as the head of a family. To follow the ancestral line backward the reverse procedure is followed, that is, the serial number of the head of the family is found toward the front of the book located in the column for children.

The index contains all the names of the persons recorded in this genealogy, except those who are known to have died in childhood. The call name of the husband or wife is in parenthesis as a means of identification for those whose names are the same. If a blank space is left for a call name it indicates a person whose name is unknown.

For an example: Refer to Joseph Engle in the index for Part I. Here we will find six Josephs without an initial. The Joseph we wish to trace is married and his wife's call name is Rosetta. The serial number for this Joseph is 50. To examine his record, refer to No. 50 where his name appears as the head of a family. To examine the record of his parents, refer to No. 50 in the children's column. Referring again to the index, Joseph Engle No. 50, the three Josephs listed before Joseph Engle No. 50, were not married, since there is no wife's call name. To examine their record or that of their parents refer to their number in the children's column. Where a serial number is followed with a small letter it indicates that person's name was added to the record after the serial numbers had been assigned.

History and Genealogy of the Descendants of

PHILIP ENGLE (A)

SECOND GENERATION A—F

(A) PHILIP ENGLE (a) (v)

Mary Darke, b June 13, 1738 d ....
Isabel Pollock, b .... d ....

For information on Philip Engle's parents and grandparents see Chart No. 1 and also the "Origin and Early History of the Engles"; (refer to "Contents", page 7). Philip was the first of our Engle family born in this country. He was in his seventeenth year when his father, Melchor Engle, died and doubtless thereafter was looked upon as the head of the family. He was married four years later to Mary Darke. After his marriage, Philip continued farming on his father's plantation where he prospered and remained until his death. Some years after he came into possession of the homestead and his family had become quite large, he built a larger log house on a good stone foundation, twenty-two by thirty feet, containing six or seven rooms and basement. Later he weatherboarded the sides. This house was used for a residence for more than one hundred years, when, about 1907, a new brick house was built in its stead and the old log house was used as a granary and other storage for many years. The author visited this home site in 1936 with the hope of getting some valuable photographs for this History, but time had obliterated every trace of the original Melchor and Philip Engle homestead except the old spring with its sparkling water still running from the ground and the old graveyard at a distance of about ten rods to the northeast, which had been neglected so long that little but vines and underbrush could be seen.

This old original farm was cut into two parts by a branch of the B. & O. Railroad that passes between the old spring and the graveyard. No doubt in the early days there was a trail past this homestead, but now these buildings stand about forty rods east of the highway. This section of the country is only slightly rolling and might easily be considered as level country. The soil in Jefferson County as well as the entire Shenandoah Valley in general is of very good quality, especially for wheat and tree fruit. However, some isolated sections are untillable because of the presence of rock. Many stone fences can be seen there.

According to tradition the following obituary was written by Dr. Waters, the life-long physician of Philip Engle: "Departed this life on the 21st inst. Mr. Philip Engle as of this county, age 87 years, one month and twelve days. Mr. Engle was born in the county of Lancaster, Pa., and migrated to Frederick County, Virginia, at the age of 12 years with his father, Melchor Engle, who was one of the first settlers of this county. He settled on Elk Branch where he left a handsome estate to his offspring, upon which the deceased resided until his death. At an early date (Jan. 1764) he married Miss Mary Darke, sister of General William Darke of the Revolutionary War, by whom he had 11 children. After her death, he married Miss Isabel Pollock, by whom he had 7 children, making 18 in all. During the Revolutionary struggle he served a campaign under Gen. Gates in the Carolina's; was fortunate enough not to get in active service, owing probably to being one of the general's guards. His patriotism, however, was never doubted, as he bore the mark, Republican, and exulted in the rise of his country to power and glory. He was an affectionate husband, indulgent parent, and obliging neighbor. Nor was this all. He was an humble follower of the Meek and Holy Jesus, in whose merits and meditations he trusted for salvation. When he left this tabernacle of clay, it was with the hope that he would enter it again at the great rising day, corrected and revised."

No trace of any will left by Philip Engle could be found, and it is believed that he quite fully divided his property before his death, as is indicated by court and tax records. During his lifetime, he acquired a large acreage, several slaves, and other personal property, which is proven by the court and tax records on file at Martinsburg, W. Va., and in the Virginia State Archives and Land Office at Richmond.

In the Engle Cemetery (sometimes called the Darke Cemetery) on the old Engle plantation, a short distance south of the village of Shenandoah Junction in Jefferson Co., W. Va., stands a monument which according to family tradition, was erected by Joseph Engle, No. 237, a great-grandson of the senior Philip Engle, (A) On one side of this stone are these words: "Mary Darke Engle and Isabel Pollock Engle, wives of Philip Engle, Sr., 1742 - 1829"; on the other side,—"Melchor Engle, first Engle settler, 1750". The truth of the matter is,—Philip Engle was born Oct. 8th, 1743, and died Nov. 21st, 1830. It is not probable that Melchor Engle moved to Virginia before 1752 or 1753, since he purchased property in Lancaster, Pa., as late as Sept. 19, 1752, and his first purchase in Va. was Jan. 1, 1754. His first sale of property in Pa. was Feb. 17, 1755. It is also improbable that Melchor Engle delayed his migration to the Valley as late as 1755 (as is purported by the above obituary of Philip Engle) for in that year and the two years which followed, the Valley was overrun with Indian war parties carrying death and destruction with them.

Mary Darke, daughter of Joseph Darke, and granddaughter of John and Jane (Rush) Darke of Oxfordshire, England, was born in Bucks Co., Pa. At the age of three she accompanied her parents to the community of what is now Shepherdstown, Jefferson Co., W. Va., in 1741. The Darkes were large people, kind-hearted and obliging, possessing a fiery but quickly controlled temper. Isabel, daughter of Thomas and Mary Pollock who lived at Shepherdstown, was a first cousin to President Polk. Her sister Elizabeth married her step-son, Michael Engle, No. 8. Her brother Addison was a Presbyterian minister. Later, their name was spelled Polk. Mary was the mother of the first eleven children, and Isabel of the last seven.

The author made a thorough search for old family Bibles, which might contain all the names and birth dates in Philip Engle's family, but only one was located which was known to have contained all of the eighteen children; this had been in the possession of the youngest son's child, No. 86, whose widow stated that the old Bible containing the names and dates of his father's brothers and sisters had been destroyed by fire in the home some years before. There may be a slight difference in the order of births of the children whose birth dates are missing.

1 JOHN M. ENGLE (a) (*)

Abigal Hendricks, b .... d ....
Mary Coons, b .... d ....
Hanna Clayton, b Oct. 13, 1775 d July 7, 1841

John, Abigal, Mary, and Hanna were born and reared in Jefferson County, W. Va. They obtained their education through meager advantages furnished by the rural schools of their time. All the children were born and reared on a farm near Duffields, Jefferson Co., W. Va., and all except Joseph accompanied their parents to Ohio in 1821 where the father purchased a large farm, two and one-half miles northwest of South Vienna, in Clark County. This farm is still in the family, (1939), being owned and operated by great-grandchildren. John was a successful farmer. He possessed a spotless character; was honored and respected by all who knew him. Abigal was mother of the first child; Hanna, of the rest.

Joseph, who remained in Jefferson County, W. Va., had learned the blacksmith trade at an early age and became very successful in his chosen work, which he followed until late in life, and at his death left a handsome fortune to his brothers and sister.

2 JOSEPH ENGLE (b) (*)

It was reported that Joseph left the home community and went West. The only clue (if such it is) is the fact that his brother, William, lived in St. Clair County, Ill. (opposite St. Louis, Mo.) for many years, and his sister, Sarah, lived in St. Louis. The author made a special effort to contact some descendants of Joseph and Sarah in this section.

4 WILLIAM ENGLE (d) (*)

Mary Lemon, b May 13, 1773 d Nov. 14, 1846

They always lived in Jefferson County, W. Va., where William was a farmer. Mary was the daughter of Captain John and Martha (Stillwell) Lemon. She was admired and loved by all for her lovely Christian character, patience, and fortitude. She was born in Berkeley County, W. Va. Her father was a captain in the Revolutionary War. She was buried in the old cemetery at Harper's Ferry, W. Va. To show the custom in Virginia at that time, note the following:

Marriage Bond of William Engle and Mary Lemon. Know All Men by These Presents, That we, William Engle and Frederick Inhoof are held and firmly bound unto his Excellency, Wood, Esq., Governor of Virginia, in the first and full sum of fifty pounds current money to be paid to the said Governor or his successor, which payment, well and truly to be made, we bind ourselves, our heirs, executors and administrators jointly and severally, firmly by the presents.

Sealed with our seals, dated this 29th day of October, 1798. The condition of the above obligation is such that whereas a marriage is suddenly intended to be solemnized between the above, bound, William Engle and Mary Lemon, both of this county; if there should be no lawful cause to obstruct the said marriage, then above obligation to be void, else to remain in full force and virtue of law.

Signed and delivered in the presence of: (Sgd) William Engle.
Peyton Ranson. Frederick Inhoof.

5 GEORGE ENGLE (e) (*)

Elizabeth ~~Koontz~~, STRUM b Aug. 8, 1785 d Aug. 12, 1848

George purchased a large farm from the government in the west central part of Monroe County, Mo., in 1838, which at the time of his death contained 600 acres. The original deed for this farm bearing the signature of President Martin VanBuren is now in the possession of a grandson, (687), 1937. It is thought that after leaving Virginia they stayed for a year or two, in or near St. Louis before going to Monroe County where all their children accompanied them or followed soon after.

Michael was a devout Christian, and an active member of the Zoar Baptist Church near Shenandoah Junction, Jefferson County, W. Va., where he always lived. He owned and operated a successful blacksmith business, and made in his shop, free of charge, all the nails used in the construction of his church. Elizabeth was a sister to Michael's father's second wife, Isabel. They were daughters of Thomas and Mary Pollock who lived in the community in 1793. Their brother, Addison, was a Presbyterian Minister. These Pollock children were first cousins to President Polk. Later their name was also spelled Polk.

Va., until 1852, or about that time, when they moved to Logan Co., Ohio, where they lived two or three years. Then they moved to a farm near Jeffersonville, Fayette Co., Ohio, where they remained. They were honored and respected by those who knew them; neighbors everyone was proud to have. Elizabeth was Isaac's second wife; his first wife was Elizabeth's niece, her half brother William's daughter, Martha, No. 41. Isaac was also a carpenter and shoemaker by trade. At the time of his death he had 12 great-grandchildren living. See No. 134, who, at the time of her death had 9 great-great-grandchildren living. Photograph, page I.

Mary Butt, b Nov. 27, 1795 d May 23, 1823
Esther Downing, b -------- 1785 d Oct. 8, 1825
Martha (Clark) Chance, b Apr. 20, 1797 d Apr. 20, 1849
Susan Engle, b Apr. 9, 1810 d Feb. 9, 1889

William served in the War of 1812. In 1820, he and his family, then consisting of four children, moved to St. Clair County, Ill., near Belleville, where he again engaged in farming. The rest of the children, except the last one, were born there; the last child was born in Oregon. On William Engle's first trip across the plains he was captain of the emigrant train. The family allotment consisted of two wagons, eight yoke of oxen, thirty-one cows, and three horses. With this wagon train, on March 18, 1845, he started across the plains and mountains for Oregon, where he arrived at Oregon City in the Willamette Valley in the middle of December. There he remained until spring when he took up a large "Donation Land Claim" of 640 acres, sixteen miles south of Oregon City. Molalla now stands on a part of this original claim. His children who accompanied him on this first trip, were numbers 127, 130, 132, and 134. There was but one inhabitant between Oregon City and his new hewn log home. After Martha's death he returned by way of Cape Horn and the Mississippi River to Missouri where he again married. In 1851, he accompanied another wagon train to Oregon, leaving Missouri in April and reaching his home in Oregon in October. In 1866, he sold his farm and moved to Silverton, Oregon. William was influential in the early history of the Oregon Territory and State, serving in the Territorial Legislature in 1847 and was Judge of Marion County for two years. He was an exemplary member of the Baptist Church for 45 years. William Engle's name ranks with the early pioneers who followed the example set by Dr. Marcus Whitman and thereby saved the Oregon Territory from going to Great Britain and becoming a part of Canada. His great intelligence and judgment were well proven by the fact of his early ascendancy to influence and recognition after his arrival in the territory. Mary was born and reared, probably, in Jefferson County, W. Va., and is buried near Belleville, Ill. Esther was born, reared, and married probably in St. Clair County, Ill., and is, also, buried there. Martha had been married to a Mr. Chance before her marriage to William. She was the daughter of the famous William Clark. Susan (No. 47) was born and reared in Jefferson County, W. Va., and moved with the rest of her family to Monroe County, Mo., where she lived until her marriage. The living descendants of this William Engle, as a group, were by far the author's best cooperators of all the other groups, (more than 100), and deserve the highest commendation. They moved from their home community in Jefferson County, W. Va., to St. Louis, where Archibold was known as a "Drover". He bought and drove, or shipped cattle and mules to New Orleans. It was reported by the best of authority that they were living in St. Louis in 1859 and had been for several years prior thereto. A Miss Alexander, a daughter or grand-daughter of Octavia (Orme) Alexander, was a music teacher there. The author made several serious attempts to locate some of their descendants in the St. Louis section, and also endeavored to find a trace of Sarah's younger brother, Joseph, there; since Sarah and her older brother, William, and several first cousins had located there, Joseph probably went there also, but no trace could be found.

John lived three miles up the Potomac River from Harper's Ferry, W. Va., where he was one of the wealthiest farmers in his community. He owned a large number of slaves (15 at the most) mostly men and all good workers. They were well housed, clothed, and cared for; they were close friends of their master and his family. John was honest, honored, and respected by all the community. He was exceptionally handy at all kinds of work that a pioneer farmer was called upon to perform,—blacksmithing, carpentering, etc. All the children were born and reared on this farm; the first eight to his first wife, the next three to his second wife, and the last two to the last wife.

Elizabeth Daniels, b Nov. 20, 1804 d Aug. 25, 1870

Philip owned and operated three farms, which land was located on both sides of the B. & O. Railroad for a distance of four miles. It was on this land that the town of Engle, Jefferson County, W. Va., was started. He was very prosperous up to the time of the Civil War, which freed his slaves and destroyed his property, thereby putting him into debt, never getting out again. Philip and his brother, John, were expert marksmen, equal to any in the county. He and his brother, William, while on one of their trips to Ohio, came to a group of men shooting at a mark and Philip observed that they had a new bridle for the best marksman. He dismounted, paid his fee, won the bridle, and then caught up with his brother showing his prize, to which William responded, "Really, Philip, it is too bad for you to gamble, and out here 500 miles from home." Philip liked to cook, enjoyed lots of company, and was always jolly. All the children were born and reared on the farm where Engle Station now stands. Elizabeth was born and reared in Ohio near the Scioto River. Her father was a Major in the regular army and was killed in a skirmish with the Indians. She was kind hearted and loved by all. She was an invalid for many years before her death. Photograh, page I.

40 WILLIAM D. ENGLE (a) (v)

Jane Hutchinson, b Oct. 6, 1801 d Oct. 18, 1876

William was always engaged in farming, and also taught school for many years in connection with his farming. They lived a few years in Harper's Ferry, West Virginia, and then moved to the extreme northern part of Frederick Co., Virginia, where they bought fifty acres in 1833, then sold the same in 1845, and probably moved back to Harper's Ferry or that vicinity. About 1863, they moved to Fayette Co., Ohio, where they farmed for two or three years near Jamestown, moving from there in the fall of 1865 to Allen Co., where William bought seventy acres, five miles east of Lima, Ohio. He was honest, honored, and respected by his neighbors. He lived the "Golden Rule". Jane was also a native of Jefferson Co., West Virginia. She was a daughter of Rev. John Hutchinson, a minister of the old school, Baptist faith. Rev. Hutchinson was a fine Christian man, greatly devoted to his church work. We quote the following from Simple's "Lives of Baptists.": "At the Baptist Church at Ketockton, a dispute arose which caused trouble and disrupted the harmony of the association, which lasted several years. In 1800 the breach having been healed, the pastor moved to Kentucky and Rev. John Hutchinson took charge and lived among them. Since Rev. Hutchinson has resided among them they have moved along in an orderly and peaceful way. It seemed he knew how to rule them as well as he ruled his grandson, John. Rev. Hutchinson is respected as a preacher of gifts, sound in faith, and successful in doing good." Rev. Hutchinson's grandson, John (199), often attended church where his grandfather preached. One time, John, like most boys, became a little restless, and in the middle of the sermon Rev. Hutchinson stopped abruptly, looked straight at John and said, "John, sit still." John said afterwards that he sat still after that but the old gentleman would never know how mortified he felt. Rev. Hutchinson was of Puritan stock. The first four children were born in Jefferson Co., W. Va., and the last three in Frederick Co., Va. James, against the wishes of his family, enlisted in the Confederate army and died while in the service. Photograph, page III.

Sarah Ann Strider, b Nov. 22, 1819 d Aug. 9, 1882

Having lost his father in early childhood, Philip was taught the blacksmith and machinist trades by his mother's request, at which he became very efficient. He worked many years in the Government gun works at Harper's Ferry, W. Va. In 1849, he joined a group of friends and neighbors who set out for California to dig gold. When he returned from California he was in the mercantile business for several years. Francis Moore, whose house still stands (1930) was one of the organizers of the Baptist Church of Charles Town, W. Va. Sarah's ancestry, both in this country and in the old, made history. Both Sarah and Philip were raised on farms near Harper's Ferry and moved to Harper's Ferry after their marriage. They spent their declining years with their daughter, Cornelia, at Hamden, Ohio.

Whilhelmina Rachael Beard, b Mar. 31, 1834 d Feb. 10, 1898 See 65

Bennett moved to Crawfordsville, Ind., at the age of 25 and soon became the editor of the Crawfordsville Review. He was appointed Receiver of Public Money by President James K. Polk, who was first cousin of Bennett's mother. Later he became cashier of Elston's National Bank of Crawfordsville, a position he held for 42 years. Whillie's father, John Beard, was born in N. C., in 1795. He moved to Wayne Co., Ind., in 1811, then to Montgomery Co., Ind., in 1823, and was for 25 years one of the best known and influential men of Western Indiana. From the Records of the Indiana State Legislature we find that John Beard was a member of the Lower and Upper Houses for 15 years, and while a State Senator he introduced a bill for the present Free School System in Indiana. A similar system was originated by Prof. Horace Mann in the East, but was not enacted as a law there, or in any other state of the Union until the Beard Bill was approved by the General Assembly and was made a law on Jan. 28, 1834; however, it was not long until this educational system spread to every state. It is said that Mr. Beard and his colleagues had a hard fight for many months to get the law passed since it was greatly opposed by all bachelors and childless fathers among the legislator's constituents who declared that such a law would be unjust, in that this group would be taxed to support other people's children. John Beard's family was reared near Crawfordsville.

130 MALVINA (Engle) WHITLOCK (d) (v)

They crossed the plains and mountains in 1845 with Malvina's father's wagon train and took up a large claim, 640 acres, near Scotts Mills, seven miles from her father's claim. All the children were born and reared on this farm. Malvina, in addition to her pioneer family duties of weaving, spinning, knitting, sewing, etc., was active in community and church work. Mitchell was born and reared in Howard Co., Mo. He was a skilled hunter of large game. He was very generous and hospitable, and rendered valuable and emergent help to the many almost destitute new arrivals from the East into the Oregon territory. He was a successful farmer and horticulturist, having planted and developed one of the first and largest commercial apple orchards in the Stat.e He was one of the most prosperous and progressive citizens in Marion Co., Ore. A lifetime friend of the Indians, he permitted thousands of them to camp upon his property; learned their language and served as interpreter; suffered no depredations, except when his eldest daughter, Martha, at the age of five, was kidnapped by a dozen reckless braves and kept captive for nine hours, but was restored with apologies when Mr. Whitlock and a half dozen neighbors appeared in the Indian village. He gave liberally to churches, schools, and public enterprises in the community.

151 CHARLES W. MOHLER (e) (*)

Martha Elizabeth Kennerly, b Sept. 25, 1842 d Mar. 15, 1915

Charles adopted the original German spelling of the name Mohler. We quote from a letter written by Jacob Moler (No. 148) to his nephew (No. 512): "The first Moler of our branch to come to America was Adam with two other brothers; all three were married. The three brothers first settled in N. J., then a little later moved to near where Harrisburg, Pa. now stands. (there being no town there then). Adam soon moved and settled five miles up the Potomac from Harper's Ferry, where he took up land at this point a mile wide on both sides of the river and four miles down stream to within about a mile of Harper's Ferry, to where the old furnace stood. He later sold most of this land to the North Fox Co. of England who established what was called the Keptrice Furnace; when the Revolutionary War broke out the company wrecked their plant and moved it back to England. The correct original spelling of the emigrant Adam Moler was M-o-h-l-e-r. When Adam found that his land title or record of the land he had gotten from the King of England was spelled "Moler", he thought it best to continue spelling it that way, instead of the old way as it might affect his land title. Charles W. Mohler, youngest son of Charles and Lydia (Engle) Mohler, adopted the old correct German spelling and his descendants have retained that spelling since."

154 JACOB H. ENGLE (a) (*)
Helen Virginia Blackford, b Aug. 17, 1832 d Apr. 25, 1915

In March, 1849, Jacob joined the Charles Town Mining Co. and with eighty friends and neighbors started for the gold fields of Calif. They traveled by rail to Pittsburg and then took a boat by way of the O., Miss., and Mo., Rivers to St. Joseph, Mo. where they bought sixteen wagons, six mules each, and started May 9 across the plains and mountains two thousand miles, arriving at Sacramento September 9, 1849. They had many exciting adventures and narrow escapes. After three years' work Jacob returned home by way of the Isthmus of Panama to New York and at Philadelphia exchanged his gold dust for several thousands of dollars in coin. He arrived home on November 10, 1853 and again engaged in his life work of farming. Virginia having passed stringent Muster Laws, every citizen was required to attend muster and learn military movements. When they met, Jacob Engle was chosen captain by two-thirds over Clay Moler, his rival, and received his commission from Governor Henry A. Wise in the 55th regiment, Va. Militia. He, like many others on the border states, was not fully persuaded it was best to dissolve the Union, so tarried at home while squads of U. S. soldiers came to arrest him. Twice in one day he left his work to avoid them. Meanwhile, the State of Va. seceded and called on her sons to join her army. The secession of the State decided many, for even Robert E. Lee hesitated until then. They believed the call of the State was more than that of a nation. At the breaking out of the War Captain Jacob in September, 1861 joined Henderson's Co. of independent cavalry, which was mustered into the regular Confederate army as Glenn's Co., 7th reg. Va. Cavalry; later under Col. N. Harmar of Staunton, Gen. Rosser's brig., he took part as Commander of Co. A. (captain sick and absent) in about seventy-five battles and skirmishes during the remaining four years of the war. Jake's granddaughter Mrs. H. O. Osbourn, upon application to the War Department at Washington received the following, dated November 27, 1933: "The records show that Jacob H. Engle, Second Lieutenant Glenn's Co., 7th Reg. Va. Cavalry, Confederate States army enlisted November 1, 1861, also shown June 26, 1861 at Charles Town. He was promoted to First Lieutenant May 10, 1862. This company was transferred to the 12th Regiment Va. Cavalry and became Co. A of that organization. He was wounded in the Battle of Brandy Station, Va. June 9, 1863. His name appears as signature to an official paper dated November 30, 1864 [perhaps this accounts for his always being known as Captain]. He was paroled at Winchester, Va. April 21, 1865. His personal description was: "dark complexion, hair dark, eyes grey." Captain Jacob had quite a complete war experience. He surrendered with Gen. Lee's army at Appomattox in April, 1865 and returned home, retaining a pistol and sabre and two horses. (One of which he captured when in battle retreat after shooting its rider from its back). After the war he lived a quiet life on the farm, becoming a Deacon in the Presbyterian Church and was a kind neighbor, loved by black and white alike for his generous treatment of all. Helen's brother, William, married Jacob's sister, Anna. All the children were born and reared on the farm near Engle station.

James lived a quiet life on the farm, including the period of the Civil War. He joined the Presbyterian Church at Duffields, Jefferson Co., W. Va. where he was Elder for forty years. He was a member of the Board of Education in 1860 when free schools were first opened in Va., and for forty-four years until the time of his death. He fully appreciated the value of an education and endeavored to have all his children attend college. For this was rendered him the thanks of his children. His home on the Potomac River, two and one-half miles up from Harper's Ferry, was in one of the most dangerous sections during the Civil War. He had to cut his harvest by night for if attempted by day the soldiers would shoot at the workers from the Maryland side of the river. Rebecca's father, Isaac Dust, was one of the jurymen who convicted John Brown. Anna was mother of all the children.

Virginia Catherine Royer, b May 6, 1849 d Sept. 2, 1929

Ben lived for fifty years in the same house in which he was born and where his father had spent his life, on the farm where Engle Station now stands. It was on this old Engle homestead, then owned by Ben, that the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad built a depot. The progressive minded Engles of that community built a post office, general store, church and school. At first this place was named Keller, but later the name was changed to Engle. The engine house of the old arsenal at Harper's Ferry was used as a fort by John Brown in 1859, and when this place was surrounded, Benjamin D. Engle was the third man on the ladder when they broke in and captured Brown. Virginia was a domestic woman, a good mother and wife, and very useful in the community in caring for the sick. As a midwife she had three hundred and four babies to her credit.

John Tyler Rhulman, b Oct. 10, 1840 d Sept. 15, 1881
John P. A. Dickey, b ------------ d Mar. -- 1900

John Rhulman was born and reared in Harper's Ferry where he was employed in the Government Arsenal for many years. He began working in the gun works at Harper's Ferry at an early age and while one of John Brown's prisoners in the engine house of the Arsenal in 1859, he jumped from a window, scaled the wall, and made good his escape. His father, Adam, had been employed by the government as Instructor of Arms at the Arsenal in Harper's Ferry for forty years, and in 1861 amid flying bullets waded the Potomac River into Maryland with the army payroll under his arm, and made his way to Washington, thereby insuring their pay to many hundreds of men, who remained loyal to the government. He was rewarded for this by being sent with Col. Schuyler of the National Guards to Europe to buy and inspect arms. At the Kaisulichen Arsenal in Germany they bought 72,000 stands of arms, which he stamped with his private stamp, it being a spread eagle with an olive branch in its claws and the letter "L" beneath. During the first occupancy of Harper's Ferry by the Confederate Army in 1861, the payroll was hidden between the ceiling and upper floor of the house. A little later John was transferred to a large gunsmith factory at Trenton, N. J., as superintendent. He then moved to Leroy, McClain Co., Ill. where he lived several years. The two older children were born there. The two younger children were born at Hamden, O. where they were reared. From Ill. the family moved to Hamden, Venton Co., O. where John was employed as a pumper by the Cincinnati, Washington and Baltimore Railroad (now a part of the Baltimore and Ohio System). He suffered with tuberculosis in later years. Some years after John Rhulman's death, Cornelia married John P. A. Dickey who was then preaching in Washington Court House, O. Rev. Dickey was a talented man, a pleasing speaker, and wrote some beautiful poems. He was a brother of Judge Dickey of Greenville, O.

208 JESSIE E. (Engle) JOHNSON (c) (v)

Jessie moved at the age of four to "Hilltop House" on "Camp Hill" in Harper's Ferry where she grew up. She was an active worker in the Presbyterian Church. She was interested in family history and spent much time and effort, in genealogical research of not only the Engle but also the Darke and Moore families. Owing to failing health the work of compiling a more complete family history than had ever been attempted, had to be laid aside, and as there was no one in or near her family with an interest in such an undertaking, the work was dropped. However, the manuscript left by Jessie Johnson and preserved by her daughter, Mrs. Sarah C. Reid, (696) gave valuable aid to the author of this history; therefore, her efforts were not all in vain. Jessie's research work among the people of the Shenandoah Valley resulted in furnishing important information to Dr. Wayland for his Monologue "The German Element in the Valley of Virginia," for which she received honorable mention. She also assisted Milford Stipes in his book, "North, Keyes, Stipes' History." Charles was born in Charles Town, where he lived to the age of fourteen, then moved to Mississippi where he lived with an uncle a few years, and was in Vicksburg at the time of its siege in the Civil War. Returning to Va. he served in the Confederate Cavalry the last two years of the war and was with Lee at the time of his surrender. He was a great-grandson of Capt. George North. His ancestry on his mother's side (Gibbs) dates back to Robert North in 1400. He had a furniture store in Charles Town for several years; and was later an undertaker in Radford, Va. He was an active member and an Elder in the Presbyterian Church, and an active Mason from his youth. He was a loyal friend and a southern gentleman. Photograph, page XII.

The author wrote to Mr. Lawrence several times with no reply; later his best cooperator in that Mo. group (No. 716) made a special trip to see him which resulted in contacting many of the branches in that section and also the Oregon group, which otherwise would not have been found and included in this Genealogy. John Nathaniel Davis, b June 27, 1824, d May 1, 1905

For four years after their marriage they lived on 160 acres of Martha's father's farm which John had purchased. In 1880 they moved to a larger farm near Silverton, Ore. where they lived until their deaths. Martha was a social leader and staunch supporter of the educational facilities of the community. John was born near Rochester, N. Y. At the age of fourteen he moved with his parents to Illinois near Springfield, having descended the Ohio River from Pittsburgh on a raft. He helped his parents establish a home on the new prairie farm, farming and stock-raising. In 1851 he joined an ox-wagon train and crossed the plains and mountains to Ore. In 1853 he was chosen to accompany a family of orphan boys, whose mother had died enroute to the West and the father killed by Indians in southern Ore., back to Ill. by way of the Isthmus of Panama and the Miss. River. Heading a large and thrifty company he again crossed the plains to Ore. in 1854. For twelve years he worked at farming and carpentering, then purchased 160 acres near Scotts Mills, married, and settled down. He was a leader in civic and political affairs in the community, serving seventeen years as school director, and as many years as road supervisor, and four years as county commissioner. He was a charter member of F.U.A.M. Lodge in Marion Co., Ore.

Mathias was born near LaPorte, Ind. In the fall of 1851 his parents moved their family to St. Joseph, Mo. to winter preparatory to the long journey across the plains and mountains to Ore. On May 22, 1852 they crossed the Missouri River and eleven days later Mathias' father died with cholera. The family continued on and settled at Salem. The mother kept the family together by sewing and nursing, and later operated a hotel; however, the family soon scattered as they grew up. In Oct., 1868 Mathias moved to the Yakima Valley near what is now Yakima, Wash. where he built a log stable and a one room log house on a small farm. Soon another log room was added to the cabin where the three oldest children were born, and in 1877 a lumber room was added. It was here they set up housekeeping and where they spent the rest of their lives. It is interesting to reflect how the pioneer members of our family continued to push westward into new country until they reached the Pacific coast, from the middle of the 18th century to the latter part of the 19th.

After finishing his school work, which included some college work, James entered the government service as an accountant in the Treasury Dept. at Washington where he soon won a first grade clerkship, which position he held until his death. In 1906 he published a 36 page booklet giving information and data on some of our early Engles, and some Civil War reminiscence. This family history was an aid to the author in locating the descendants of many of the early Engles. It is to be regretted that James did not go a great deal farther in his work, as it would not have been so difficult at that time to have completed the entire Melchor Engle family history. Lavinia was born and reared near Springfield, O.

696 SARAH C. (Johnson) REID (b) (*)
Mark Reid, b Oct. 4, 1870 -------------

Sarah was born and reared in Charles Town, W. Va. At the age of seventeen, she moved with her parents to Roanoke where she was married. She moved to Radford, Va. and lived there until her death. She was an active member of the Presbyterian Church, and of civic and women's clubs of the city, having organized many of them. She served efficiently in Church Auxiliary, public library work and current events clubs. She was charter member of New River U.D.C. and Treas. and Vice Pres. of Va. State Federation of Women's Clubs. She organized the D.A.R. in Radford serving three years as Regent, and was State Chairman of Americanization of the Va. Division of the D.A.R. She served in the following capacities during the World War: on Va. War History Commission; Montgomery Co. Agricultural Council of Safety; Chairman, Women's Organization for the sale of Liberty Bonds in the county; Home Economics Director for Radford; District Chairman of Fourth Liberty Loan drive; on executive committee of Victory Loan drive; Chairman of Thrift Postal Savings Stamp drive of the State Federation of Women's Clubs in which campaign Radford won the banner in the fifth regional district. In the first year book, published by the Women's Clubs of Radford, the following tribute was paid to her, "We, the Women's Clubs of Radford, dedicate our first year book to Mrs. Mark Reid as a token of our love and appreciation for her lofty ideals, sympathetic interest and devotion to service." She was stricken with heart trouble in 1928 and was unable to take active part in social and civic affairs thereafter. It was Mrs. Reid who loaned the writer her mother's manuscript containing some early Engle family records and reminiscences for which he was very grateful indeed. Mark was born and reared in Rappahannock Co., Va. where his father owned and operated a large tannery. When his father died in 1861, the trustee disappeared with the money and a little later Gen. Sheridan passed through the valley, leaving only the earth and the sky above; it was literally true that "a crow had to carry his rations on his back when flying across the valley." After his marriage, Mark went into the furniture business with his father-in-law in Radford where he remained active for many years. He served as Commissioner of Revenue of Radford for twelve years; in later years, Secretary-Treasurer of Radford Real Estate and Insurance Co. The children were born and reared in Radford.

He wrote: "Saw no way for labor to get its just share only through labor owning the government and the government to control the things people had to work with, and thereby, get the full fruits of their toil; this led to politics and a general fight until the People's Party won the State of Washington. I then moved back to Mo. in about 1899 and entered the real estate business, where I made a fine success; I also raised high grade stock (horses and jacks). I sold out in 1915 and moved to Aurora, Mo., where I helped to establish the Anti-Catholic paper, "The Menace" (a weekly); also aided the socialist paper "The Appeal to Reason," one of the first socialist papers in the country; and again went broke, as both papers finally had to cease publication, both of which at one time reached a large circulation." James was a Methodist. Res., Pomona, Mo.

Dak. in 1900; to Barrows in Alberta, Canada in 1917; to High Prairie in 1919; then to Peace River, Alberta in 1929 where they have lived to the present time (1934). Adam was born and reared near Brandt, O., and was engaged in farming most of his life. In a letter to the author dated Feb. 13, 1931, Effie wrote: "We have had the loveliest winter I ever saw in any country. It has not been below zero except two days this winter. We are having an Ice Carnival here tomorrow and hundreds of people are here to take part in the sports. There are twelve hockey and fourteen curling teams to take part. They have built an ice palace in the Public Square and have it lit up with different colored lights, and tomorrow night they will crown the Carnival Queen and present her with a beautiful diamond ring. This is the most beautiful place I have ever seen, with the three rivers,—the Peace, the Hart, and the Smoky rivers, with the hills 800 feet high around the town." Then in another letter dated April 12, 1932, she writes: "You spoke of the unusual mild winter in Ohio this winter. It has not been so mild up here. The coldest was 62 degrees below zero, and 40 to 50 below was quite common. We also had lots of snow; in some places it was drifted over the tops of the fence posts. The roads are bare of snow here in Peace River, but there is much yet out in the brush. There is a great rush thru here this year to Great Bear Lake, to the silver, gold, and radium mines up North."

The Author's Birthplace, and His Parents. These pictures were taken by the author in December 1903 with his kodak. The farm scene was taken from a corn field looking northeast across the highway which passes in front of the buildings. The small building to the left of the house is part of the original home in which the author's parents went to housekeeping and where his grandparents had lived. The new house was built in 1898. This 80 acre farm is the west half of the southwest quarter of section one in Perry Township, Allen County, Ohio.

SECOND GENERATION A-F

(F) GEORGE ENGLE (d) (*)
Elizabeth Sturm, b Aug. --- 1758 d July 2, 1835

The birth date of George was found in the Trinity Lutheran Church Baptismal Record, Lancaster, Pa. George, together with his brothers John and William did not inherit their share of their father's estate until after the death of their mother. (Refer to Contents, page 7 for Melchor Engle's Will and Property Settlement.) This land, upon the formation of Berkeley County in 1772, lay within its boundaries, and upon the formation of Jefferson County in 1801, became a part of that county, which is now in the state of W. Va. Jefferson County is in the northern end of the Shenandoah Valley. George was married in the early 1770's to Elizabeth Sturm or Storm. The earliest record so far located showing the name of George Engle's wife is an indenture dated November 14, 1774 ". . . between Philip Engle Heir at Law of Melgar Engle deceased and Mary his wife and George Engle son of Melgar Engle and Elizabeth his wife both of Berkeley County in the Colony of Virginia of the one part and Jacob Miller of the other part. . ." This indenture is recorded in Deed Book 3, page 101, Berkeley County, West Virginia.

Elizabeth's parentage is not known although family tradition is that her people lived near Hagerstown, Md., and that her father was related to Lord Baltimore. Tradition is that she had a brother Jacob Sturm. In Deed Book 15, page 274 of Frederick Co., under date of August 20, 1771 there is a record that Michael Engle leased land to Peter Storm for five years. Further investigation may show that Peter was a father or brother of Elizabeth. It will be noted that their oldest child was named Peter Engle.

The latest record so far located showing when George Engle was still living in Berkeley Co. is that of an indenture in Deed Book 3, page 238, dated March 21, 1775 to which he was a witness. Further search of records may show how long he continued to live there before following the stream of migration down the Shenandoah Valley. There are records, included elsewhere in this book, showing that all four of his brothers served the cause of Independence either by furnishing supplies or by active service in the Revolution. No record of such service has been found yet for George Engle. It may be that he did not serve, or that record of his service has been lost. The records of the State Archives at Richmond may not be complete, or the records of the War Dept. at Washington which were burned by the British troops during the War of 1812 may have contained a record of his service. It is not likely that he, alone, among five brothers did not render service.

The earliest record yet located showing purchase of land by George Engle is that of Grant No. 1195 made November 4, 1795 by the Governor of North Carolina, for 100 acres of land on the north side of Roans Creek and the Watauga River, in Washington Co., for the amount of 50 shillings. On June 1, 1796 George transferred the above tract of land to his son, Peter, for 150 pounds currency. Shortly after George was granted the above one hundred acres of land in Washington Co., N. C., Tennessee was admitted into statehood and by June 1, 1796 Carter Co. had been formed from Washington Co., with Elizabethton the countyseat.

Not much is known about George Engle and his family during the years they lived in Tennessee. His son Peter, and his daughter, Mary, married in the community. When Carter Co. was first formed, George was apparently a respected man in the community for we find his name on the venire facias returned by the sheriff for the second Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions which was held in 1796. This civil service rendered by George entitles his descendants to membership in the National Society United States Daughters of 1812.

It was in Knox County, Ky. that George Engle next sought a home about the year 1802. He was preceded by his son, Peter, who on February 21, 1801 sold back to his father for five hundred dollars the same tract of 100 acres purchased from him in 1796 for one hundred and fifty pounds, Deed Book A, page 289, Elizabethton, Tenn. When George decided to follow his son to Knox County he disposed of this same tract on October 12, 1802 for six hundred and sixty-six dollars. Deed Book A, page 385, Elizabethton Court House.

George received two grants of land from the Governor of Kentucky in 1807, both on Indian Creek in Knox Co., not very far from where Indian Creek flows into the Cumberland River. The date of survey for both are November 3, 1807, the one of 43 acres recorded in Book 7, page 513 of Kentucky Land Grants, Frankfort, and 100 acres, in Book 9, page 308. From the time he came to Knox Co. until his death, George had bought and sold many tracts of land. Tax lists for that period preserved at the Kentucky State Historical Library, show him to have been a man of considerable means for that day.

Soon after coming to Knox Co., George Engle and his wife, Elizabeth, placed their membership in the Cumberland Baptist Church which had been constituted on the North Bank of the Cumberland River near the mouth of Indian Creek. The minutes of the Church, now known as the First Baptist Church of Barbourville, Ky., contain this record, "3rd Saturday in May 1805 the church met on Indian Creek . . . and received George Engle and Elizabeth Engle by letter." It would be of interest to their descendants to know from what church the letter came, but unfortunately, the record does not give the name of the church sending the letter. It can only be surmised that they were members of one of the Baptist churches of the Holston Association, perhaps the Buffalo Ridge Church or the Cherokee Church, both of which had been organized by 1786 in Washington Co., Tenn., near Jonesboro, or of a church in Berkeley County, Va. At the September 1805 meeting of the church, George was chosen on a committee to go to Poplar Creek "to look into their ability to become an arm of the church." Apparently he was an active member of the church. In July 1825 George and Elizabeth were granted letters of dismission in full fellowship. It is likely that they moved from their plantation on Indian Creek to the home of their son, Peter, who was then living at Barbourville, the countyseat of Knox Co. Records of a Baptist church at Barbourville at that time however, are not extant. George Engle's will follows:

Knox County Kentucky Will Book A p. 106.
Knox County Court, June Term 1826

The last will and Testament of George Engle Sr. was produced in Court and proved by the oath of Harrison Boswell and Reuben Warfield, two of the subscribing witnesses thereto, and ordered of record viz as follows.

In the name of God, amen, I, George Engle senior of Knox County, who being aged and infirm and being sensible of the certainty of death, and the uncertainty of life, but being of sound and disposing mind and memory, do make & publish this as my last will and Testament, hereby revoking and annuling and cancelling all and every other will and Testament by me heretofore made. First it is my will and request that my wife Elizabeth Engle, have, occupy and enjoy the farm plantation and tract of land whereon I now live in Knox County Indian Creek for and during her natural life or widowhood except that part of said tract of land on which Joel Vannoy now lives, it is also my will and desire that my said wife have use of and enjoy all my house hold furniture, farming utensils, one two year old roan mare and saddle, her choice of two cows, out of my stock of cattle during her natural life or widowhood—Secondly it is my will and desire that Joel Vannoy occupy & enjoy that part of my aforesaid tract of land on which he now lives including the plantation which he heretofore cleared or which he may hereafter clear together with leave to use all necessary timber for keeping said plantation in repair for and during my said wife's natural life or widowhood—Thirdly, it is my will and desire that after my decease, all my property of every description be sold and all my debts collected except what has heretofore been reserved to my said wife and Joel Vannoy, and the proceeds thereof to be equally divided amongst my children—Fourthly, it is my will and desire that my said tract of land on Indian Creek including that part reserved to my said wife, and that part reserved to Joel Vannoy, together with every description of property, and its increase which is hereby reserved to my wife, be sold for the best price which it will bring after my wife's death or in case she marries so soon as she may marry, and the proceeds thereof be equally divided amongst my children. Lastly, I hereby appoint my son Peter Engle, and my wife Elizabeth Engle, my executors to this my last will and testament. In Testimony whereof I hereunto set my hand and affix my seal this 24th day of May 1822.

George Engle, Sr. (Seal)

Signed and acknowledged in the presence of us.
Joseph Eve, Reuben Warfield, Harrison Boswell

The date of George Engle's death and that of his wife are recorded in the Bible of his son, Peter, with whom he was apparently living at the time of his death. He was survived by his wife who died July 2, 1835, aged 77 years and 11 months, and by ten children—six sons and four daughters. Since he did not name all his children in his will and since no family Bible has been located, it is not known whether he had more than the ten children whose names are included in this book. It is not likely, however, that he had more children since the Kentucky census reports for 1810 and 1820 (none earlier are extant) fit in with the names of the ten children that are known.

1 PETER ENGLE (a) (v)

Margaret .... b Mar. 15, 1783 d Oct. 18, 1822
Mildred Chick, b Jan. 29, 1794 d Oct. 7, 1860

Peter was born in what is now Jefferson Co., W. Va., and went with his parents to Washington Co., N. C. (now Carter Co., Tenn.) in the 1780's or 90's At the age of twenty-one he purchased from his father 100 acres of land on Watauga River and Roan Creek in the newly formed Carter Co. for a consideration of 150 pounds currency, (Deed Book A. Page 57, Elizabethton Court House). This land Peter sold back to his father in 1801 for $500. In the spring of 1802 Peter Engle moved to Knox Co., Ky. where we find in Order Book A. Page 89, of Knox Co. under date of June 7, 1802, it was ordered that Peter Engle "mark his stock with a slit in the left and a hole in the right and no other person admitted. On June 1, 1806, Peter Engle received a grant "agreeable to an act of Assembly for encouraging and granting relief to settlers" from the Governor of Ky. for 146 acres of land situated on the Main Fork of Indian Creek in Knox Co., Book 6 page 356, Ky. Land Grant South of Green River, Frankfort, Ky. On Oct. 20, of the same year one William Engle received a grant of 200 acres on Indian Creek, (Book 5, page 71, Ky Land Grant) which he sold to Peter Engle on Oct. 26, 1808. It is not known what relationship this William Engle was to Peter; he may have been a son of Peter's uncle Michael Engle who also settled in eastern Tenn. In 1809 this same William Engle then "of Garrard Co., Ky." deeded land on Indian Creek to George Engle, (Peter's father) of Knox Co.

Peter Engle continued to purchase land from time to time until in 1882 the Knox Co. Tax Lists on file at the State Historical Society at Frankfort, Ky., show him to have taxable property valued at $3,040.00, including 100 acres of land, town lots listed at $1,000, two blacks over 16, and 2 horses. Lists for 1823 show that his town lots were valued at $1,900, and that he paid taxes on a wholesale and retail store, and on Whitley Seminary. The Lists show that he paid taxes for land entered in the name of Whitley Seminary from 1823 to 1831. He was licensed to keep a tavern as early as 1815, and Lists for 1823 show that he still paid taxes on a tavern. The 1824 Lists include his wheel carriage as taxable property.

Peter was a prominent citizen of Knox Co. and served in an official capacity during most of his life there. In Order Book A, page 277, there is a record showing that he was sworn in as Deputy Sheriff Dec. 7, 1807, under Alexander Stewart, Sheriff. On Dec. 12, 1808, he was ordered to view out a road on Indian Creek, Order Book A, page 327.

Peter twice served as Justice of the Peace in Knox Co. Recorded in Order Book A, page 358, Dec. 4, 1809 is the following: "Peter Engle produced a commission from His Excellancy Charles Scott Esquire appointing him a Justice of the Peace in Knox County and had the several oathes of office administered unto him and took his seat." He was again appointed Justice of the Peace Feb. 25, 1833, Order Book B, page 409. At that period of time the Justice of Peace served as Judge of the County Courts in Ky. It was not until 1845 that the office of County Judge became an elective office.

Peter was Jailor of Knox Co. from 1816-1818. He was also appointed Road Commissioner in 1820. A few years later he "Produced in court a commission from the Governor of this commonwealth as keeper of the gate on the Turnpike and Wilderness road and entered into bond in the sum of four thousand dollars conditioned in the law."

Peter was also in the employ of the national government. The 1810 Census of the United States (the earliest extant for Kentucky) for Knox Co., is headed thus, "I do certify that this schedule contains a true statement of all the inhabitants and sexes within my division agreeable to the acts of Congress authorizing the third census to be taken. Given under my hand this 23rd day of December 1810. [Signed] Peter Engle, Assistant to Joseph Crockett, M. D. K."

He was also deputy postmaster of Barbourville, the countyseat of Knox Co. The "Register of Officers and Agents, Civil, Military, and Naval, in the Service of the United States, on the 30th of September, 1819", published by the U. S. Department of State in 1820, lists the following on page 110 under General Post Office: "Barbourville, Ky., name of Deputy Postmaster, Peter Engle, born in Virginia, compensation $50.63." On page 208 under Mail Contractors, Peter Engle is listed as receiving the compensation of $150. At that time Barbourville was the only Post Office between Tazewell, Tenn. and Mount Vernon, Ky., a distance of about 115 miles.

In the report of the Adjutant General of the State of Kentucky Soldiers of the War of 1812, by S. E. Hill, page 321, the service of Peter Engle is given as follows: "Corporal Sept. 10, 1814—Oct. 9, 1814; Under Roll of Capt. Memorial Forrest's Co., Ky. Vol. Militia. Commanded by Lieut. Col. Andrew Porter." The above service, or service in any of the public offices which Peter Engle held prior to 1815 entitles any female descendant of his to membership in the U. S. Daughters of 1812.

In 1805 Peter Engle was received into the Cumberland River Baptist Church of Knox Co. The church had been organized May 12, 1804 on the North Bank of the Cumberland River near the mouth of Indian Creek and in May 1805, that part of the church on Indian Creek was set apart as an arm of the church. It is now known as the First Baptist Church of Barbourville. The minutes for the third Saturday in June, 1805, records, "Rec'd Peter Engle . . . by experience." His wife, Margaret, had been received by experience at the April meeting and his parents, George and Elizabeth, by letter at the May meeting. On the third Saturday of September, 1805, the order of business was this, "1st appt. Bro. Peter Engle clerk. 2nd Bro. Peter Engle was chosen as Deacon of the church". At that same meeting Peter was also chosen as a delegate to the Association. The minutes of the October 1810 meeting state that the next meeting was to be at Peter Engle's on Indian Creek. In August, 1811, Peter was chosen moderator. Apparently the church had been meeting at the homes of the members for in March, 1814, Peter was one of the trustees chosen to superintend the building of a meeting-house. In that year he was again ordained as Deacon. In June, 1818, the meeting was held at Barbourville, and in 1822 the church was moved to the school house at Barbourville. At the meeting in Barbourville in July, 1834, Sister Mildred Engle (Peter's second wife) was received by letter. Peter was among those appointed to prepare rules of decorum. In 1835 Peter was appointed clerk, and in 1836 he was called to the deaconship. Most of the minutes in this record book are signed by Peter Engle and are in a very legible handwriting. The last minutes recorded by him are for the February meeting in 1840. He served faithfully in the church up to within a few days of his death.

Peter Engle's family Bible was given to Virginia Engle (434) by his grand-daughter, Sarah Catherine (Ramsey) Culton, (No. 117). The Bible was published in 1815, and contains not only records for his immediate family and many of their children, but date of death of his parents. The space for records is completely filled. Preserved in this Bible are several mementos, among which are the printed minutes of the South Union Association of United Baptists held at Poplar Creek Meeting-House in Knox Co. in 1834. Peter was a delegate from the church at Barbourville, and was the Clerk of the Assoc. His brothers, Philip and John, were messengers to this Assoc. from the Laurel River Assoc.

Peter died without having made a will. The inventory of the appraisement of his estate includes among other items: To one clock $15.00, one folding table $10.00, two trunks and one chest $4.00, one looking glass $1.25, two bed steads, bed and furniture $50.00, one lot of books $3.00.

Mildred Engle, second wife of Peter, was left a widow with six children the eldest of whom was fifteen years of age. The Census Report of 1840 lists her as head of the family which was composed of 25 persons including 18 slaves. Six persons in the family were employed in agriculture. Family tradition is that she managed the farm on which they lived, and operated a grist mill after her husband's death. She was born in Virginia, the daughter of James Chick who had come to Knox Co. from Culpepper Co., Va. about 1807. He was granted a license to keep a tavern in 1808 "at the 19 mile tree on the State Road" and at various other times including 1814, in the town of Barbourville. He received a pension for his services during the Revolutionary war. Silas Woodson, son of Mildred's sister, Aley Chick Woodson, was a prominent lawyer of Barbourville, and later, governor of Missouri. During the 1850's Mildred moved from Knox Co. to Laurel Co. where her married children and their families had located around Gray Hawk. By 1858 this section of Laurel Co. was incorporated into a new county known as Jackson. Mildred died there in 1860 and was buried in the graveyard on the Elhannon Clark farm where other relatives are buried. Her grave is unmarked.

According to a deed recorded in Deed Book C, page 165, Knox Co., Ky., Peter Engle reserved a half acre lot adjoining his town lots in Barbourville for a graveyard and believed he was preserving this graveyard for the last earthly resting place of himself and his family, but the hand of man, greedy for gain, has committed an act of desecration, and no vestige of the graveyard remains. Judge Jesse D. Tuggle, Mrs. James D. Black, wife of Governor Black, and Mrs. Martha Costellow stated in 1936 that near relatives of theirs were buried there. Following is a letter in part which will bear witness to the profanation of this graveyard:

Miss Virginia Engle,
45 A. Jackson St.
Berea, Ky.

My dear Miss Engle:

I have your letter of September 27th. * * *

For many years after I was admitted to the bar and while I lived in Barbourville, I was engaged in the examination of land titles, and in that way became very familiar with the names of all the early settlers and old families of the county, and their places of residence as well. I know, from the public records of the County that Peter Engle was among the early settlers, and first settled on Indian Creek, seven or eight miles northwest of Barbourville, but I do not know just what year he moved to town.

The tract of land to which you refer, and which he sold in 1818, and from which conveyance he excluded the graveyard thereon, joined lots Nos. 50 and 51, which he purchased in 1818, and extended northwardly, between Main street and what is now College street, to the street now called Coyt street, which extends from College street to Main street. This tract contained approximately ten acres.

The grave yard embraced the three lots now occupied by Mrs. Margaret Sampson, Professor D. M. Humfleet and Dr. D. T. Wilson.

As I now recall, Peter Engle conveyed the tract to General Hugh White, of Clay County, from whom it passed, through successive conveyances, to the late Jesse T. Wilson, father of D. T. Wilson above mentioned, and who lived in the house adjoining my sister's residence, on the south; and by the way, his widow, (second wife) now Mrs. Hoskins, still resides there. Each deed of conveyance from Peter Engle, down to the conveyance to Mr. Jesse T. Wilson, excluded the grave yard, and during his life time Mr. Wilson recognized that he had no title to the grave yard, and during his life time refrained from any use of it other than to pasture his cow on it. After his death, however, his widow and sons began to assert title as by adverse possession, and since there were no persons then living in Barbourville who could or would take issue with them, they subsequently cut it up into the three lots and conveyed them.

I have known that grave yard for more than fifty years. It joined my father's lot, and in my boyhood, it was the play ground of the boys of the neighborhood. About the center of it—which would now be within Humfleet's lot and just back of his dwelling house, there stood the largest wild cherry tree I ever saw. Around this tree there were seven or eight graves, each marked with "head" and "foot" stones. Each of them was the grave of an Engle. One of them was Peter Engle, and I have a faint recollection that another was George Engle. Two or three, maybe more, of them, were graves of women or girls, as indicated on the "head" stones. They, too, were Engles. These "'head" and "foot" stones as they were then called in the Kentucky mountains, and which are now called markers, were of dressed sand stone. The foot stones, square, standing about a foot above the surface. The head stones, larger, standing two and a half, or three, feet above the surface. They were well made and exhibited real craftmanship. I remember Peter Engle's head stone distinctly. It was the largest, and his name was cut in larger letters than the others. When I can first remember the grave yard, all the markers were standing erect. In later years, many of them began to lean, and finally fell completely over and down, but they were all lying in their approximate original location when J. M. Wilson, another son of Jesse T. Wilson, erected the first house within the lines of the grave yard. This is the house now occupied by Mrs. Sampson, and was erected about 1902 or 1903, and many, if not all, these Engle grave markers, were gathered up, and used, I am quite sure, in the foundation of that house. I recall, distinctly passing through the grave yard, as a short cut from the College to my home, just after the construction of the foundation was started, and observed some of the markers being broken up for some use, and upon reaching home, of protesting to my mother against such sacrilege, but of course, she could do no more about it than I could. Each of these head stones bore the name of a member of the Engle family, with year of birth and death, and each had a short inscription in addition, but I can not now, of course, recall any date, but we boys, many times, observed and commented upon the dates shown, as they were then the most ancient markers either of us had ever seen.

I realize that I have not helped you much, other than to locate for you the graves of Peter Engle and other members of his family, which I hope, will be of some worth to you.

Sincerely yours,
(Signed) Thos. D. Tinsley.

Mildred was the mother of all the children and they were born and reared in Knox Co.

John Barton, b ---------- 1788 d -------------

Little is known about this family other than that there were several children and this is revealed in a letter addressed to Mary (Engle) Dugger (No. 4) from her brother (No. 7), which is now (1938) in the possession of No. 648. It reads as follows:

Oct. 21st, 1852
Knox County, Ky.

Dear Brother & Sister and All.

I now imbrace the present opportunity of writing a few lines to you to let you know how we are coming on in this country. We are all well at this time as far as I know thanks be to God for his kind protection towards us hoping when these few lines comes to hand they will find you all enjoying the same like blessings. I have nothing strange to write you only we have tolerable fair crops this season. After a long dry spell in the summer it pleased God to send us plenty of rain so we have a flattering prospect for plentiful times. Stock is high and money tolerable plenty, though hogs is considerable lower than they was last fall. Horses and cattle are high. You said you wanted me to write whether I could come to see you or when, I cannot tell you whether or not I am so crippled up with pains in hips that it hurts me to ride. I would be glad to see you all once more on this side of Eternity I will come if I can and I wanted you to do the same. My children have all married off and left me and the old lady alone. I can inform you that Brother John and Sister Elizabeth Barton was out here in February last they was all well that was alive. Their sons that died in Mexico died with sickness. I can inform you that our Brother in law Levi Campbell died on the 22nd of August last. Sister Fanny and the family is well. I pray you to excuse me for writing to you no sooner. 4 MARY (Engle) DUGGER (d) (v)
John Dugger, b Oct. 11, 1780 d Aug. 2, 1869

After her marriage Mary lived near Butler, Tenn. John was born in what is now Wilksboro, N. C. According to family tradition, the loss of his second born, the twins, who were named after his paternal grandparents, influenced him to take up the study of medicine, in which profession he became quite efficient for that day. The handmade case and balance scales that Dr. John Dugger used is a highly prized heirloom in the possession of his great-granddaughter (No. 648). John was commissioned Captain of the Militia at the age of sixteen by Gov. John Sevier. He served in the War of 1812, and was under Gen. Jackson in the battle of Horseshoe Bend in Ala. against the Creek Indians on Mar. 27, 1814. While on picket duty the following night, the half breed Indian Chief, Weatherford, presented himself to the ensign for surrender. John received him with the courtesy and dignity befitting a chief, and conducted him to Gen. Jackson's headquarters where the treaty of peace was signed. On his march to the sea, Gen. Sherman, on Sept. 27, 1865, paid tribute to the military record of John Dugger, who was then 85 years old, by marching up Watauga River and stopping in front of John's home and giving a military salute. John Dugger and his sons proved their physical and mental strength by becoming the iron kings of N. C. and Tenn. They owned the Dugger Forge in what is now Johnson Co., Tenn. with all the surrounding fine lands, timber, and deposits of ore. They owned the Forge at Cranberry, N. C. with the most massive deposit of manganese ever operated in the South.

John Dugger's father, Julius Dugger, born Sept. 9, 1760, served in the Revolutionary War in Col. Sevier's (N. C.) Regiment and in the battle of Lookout Mountain against the Creek Indians in 1788. He operated the first ferry boat on the Watauga River in 1784 and for many years after. He helped to build the first fort in the upper Watauga Settlement, eight miles above the present city of Elizabethton, Washington Co., Tenn., which was then Washington Co., N. C. The vicinity of Watauga Settlement and Watauga River in Carter Co., Tenn. is one of the most historic spots in the state or the nation, since it was on the Watauga River in Carter Co. that the first permanent settlement in Tenn. was made and where the first constitution was written for civilized government west of the Alleghenies. President Theodore Roosevelt in his "Winning of the West" says: "These men were the first men of American birth to establish a free and independent government on this continent." From a History of Watauga Co. by J. P. Arthur we quote: "The Dugger family of Cove Creek are descendants of Benjamin Dugger, who came from Yadkin Elk in 1793 or 1794 to Brushy Fork and entered land there, and for whom the Dugger Mountain and Creek east of the Blue Ridge are named. There were three brothers who came from Scotland and stopped awhile near Petersburg, Va., named Benjamin, Daniel, and Julius. Ben stopped at Yadkin Elk, Daniel went to Ken, and Julius settled near Fish Springs on the Watauga River in Tenn. It was from Julius' children that the Banner Elk Duggers descended." Mary Austin in her book "Earths Horizon" states that "The Duggers are of French origin and that the name was originally Dagueere and it was one of those descendants that discovered "Dagueereotype". All the Historical Chronicles show the generations of the Dugger family to be characterized by their integrity and energy, and looked upon as an asset to their community. John's will follows:

37 BENJAMIN C. DUGGER (g) (*)
Mary E. (Campbell) Taylor, b .... d ....

In a letter to Mrs. W. M. Vaught (No 648), dated July 25, 1939, John B. Wilson, Secretary of State, Atlanta, Ga. writes:

"The records of this office show that Benjamin C. Dugger was a member of the House of Representatives of Georgia for the following sessions: 1873-4, 1875-6, 1877, 1878-9, 1884-5, 1888-9, and was Senator from the forty-first Senatorial District, composed of Fannin, Gilmer and Pickens counties, for the 1880-1 session. * * *

I find the following sketch in "Georgia's General Assembly of 1878" Biographical Sketches of Senators, Representatives, the Governor and Heads of Departments, by Samuel A. Echols,

"Hon. Benj. C. Dugger".
(Fannin County)

"Who shall judge a man from manners,
Who shall know him by his dress?
Poor men may be fit for princes,
Princes fit for something less.
Homespun shirt and crumpled jacket
May beclothe the golden ore
Of the deepest thought and feeling,—
Satin vest could do no more.
—President Lincoln's favorite lines".

"What would the Georgia legislature be without the member by the name of Dugger? He has served in six consecutive sessions; and is likely to continue to come to the House, until he is called to take a seat in one not made with hands,

"Mr. Dugger is an honest man. Not a member of any House with whom he has served will say nay to that proposition. He is not an Apollo in personal beauty, nor a Daniel Webster in learning, or eloquence, nor does he profess to be either. Then, too, he is a Republican, and that, by some men, would be considered a crime. But he is honest—honest in his homeliness, in his unpretentiousness to learning, and in his Republicanism". * * *

"Mr. Dugger is one of twenty children of John and Mary Dugger. He had twelve brothers and seven sisters. He was born in Carter (now Johnson) county, Tenn., and there received a meager rudimentary education. His avocation since boyhood has been chiefly farming, though he has been at times engaged in mining. He was in 1835 Captain of a Militia company in Tenn. In 1847 he opened the Ducktown Copper Mines, in Polk county. In 1885, he removed to Fannin, where he has since resided. In 1848 he married Mrs. Mary L. Taylor of Polk County".

Mr. Dugger came to the Legislature in 1873, and has been re-elected to every succeeding one. His Republicanism does not partake of the dishonest propensity which characterized too many of his party in the South since the war.

"Georgia's General Assembly, 1878" by Samuel A. Echols, p. 117.

From other information I find his initial "C" indicated "Carter".

(Signed) John B. Wilson,
Secretary of State."

Elizabeth was one of the organizers of the local chapter of the D.A.R. and other historical societies of Elizabethton, Tenn. She has served on state and national committees of the U. S. Daughters of 1812, and has been prominent in social and civic affairs for many years. She is a member of the Baptist Church. William was born and reared near Mountain City, Tenn. His father was a farmer and also a manufacturer of farm implements. He served in the 13th Tenn. Cavalry of the Union Army in the Civil War. William was graduated from Watauga Academy at Butler, Tenn. in 1891 with a B. A. degree, and then taught mathematics in the Academy one year. After teaching in Pomeroy, Wash. for two years, he returned to Carter Co. where he continued teaching for several years. He was in the employ of the Empire Chair Co. of Elizabethton for several years, serving as construction supervisor of their new plant and as secretary and treasurer for two years. He began his public utility career in 1910 as bookkeeper for a Watauga Power Company and advanced to the position of manager in 1914, which he held until his death. This company merged with other companies and expanded until at the time of William's death it served a large section of the country in eastern Tenn. and western N. C. He served on the City Council and Board of Education for several years and was a member of the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce. He was a Deacon in the Baptist Church and chairman of the Building Committee during the erection of the new church edifice. He was an active member of the Masonic Order. Shepherd was born in Tenn. and at the age of two years accompanied his parents to the vicinity of Banner Elk in N. C. where he spent the greater part of his life. He was widely known as "the grand old man of the North Carolina Mountains". He possessed a keen knowledge of mountain life and customs, and was the author of two well known books on the mountains,—"The Balsom Groves of Grandfather Mountain," and "War Trails of the Blue Ridge". During his life he served as school teacher, county school superintendent, and county engineer. He was loved and respected by all who knew him. The death of his oldest son was a shock from which he never recovered.

CORRECTIONS and FAMILY RECORDS

The following statement is given to show the need for the blank forms appearing on the double pages which follow: With the first letter to each person to whom the author wrote for information was enclosed a printed summary of his objectives together with a blank form to be filled in with certain data, which consisted of the full name, (call name to be underscored for identification), address, birth, marriage, and death dates of every one in the family, including the parents and grandparents, and whom each one married; all to be printed or written plainly. Only about five per cent fully complied with these requests. Some names were so written that it was difficult to distinguish the correct spelling, and very few call names were indicated.

Although the manuscript for this book was checked and proofread three times before going to the printer and again after the proofs were received, yet because of the above conditions and wishing to profit by the experience of other genealogists, these double pages have been added in order that you may correct an error, if any appears in the record of your family or that of your near kin. This feature, in addition to the arrangement of the names and dates in the genealogy section, was used so that your descendants might have a complete and accurate record of their family. You are urged to make these corrections at once (if any are needed) on the first double page, and then future records can follow in proper order. The double pages were arranged in simple form to correspond with the plan used in the genealogy. Study the following instructions carefully that you may fully understand just

How to Correct Your Family Record. For example, refer to any name in the children's column. If a missing name or date is known, use a fine pointed pen (preferably an accountant's pen) to print it in the space left for it. If a name or date is incorrect, draw a line through it and on the margin of the page preceding the serial number print p- ? , which means the correction is made on that page. Then place the correct name or date thereon, making sure that the serial number is placed in the column headed "Child No." A wife's or husband's record is corrected in the same manner, ecept make sure the serial number is placed in the column headed "Family No."

How to Record New Births. To record a new birth to any head of a family shown in this book, place the name and date on the 'Family Record' page together with the serial number which would be the same as the preceding child's number plus the addition of a letter, a, b, or c, etc.

To Record a New Marriage and Future Descendants. For example, refer to Ralph P. Engle, No. 2735, Part 1. If or when Ralph marries, place the date in the space following his birth and on the margin of the page preceding his number place the number of the page in the "Family Record" where his wife's maiden name, birth date, and marriage number (which would be 2735), should be printed in the proper spaces.

If Ralph should have descendants, their names, dates, and serial numbers should also be printed in their respective places in the "Family Record"; however, their serial number would be the same as their parent's number plus a dash and figure (or letter). For example: Ralph's number is 2735; when he marries it will become his family number. His children's numbers would be 2735-1 for the first child, 2735-2 for the second child, etc. His grandchildren's numbers would be 2735-1-A for the first grandchild, 2735-1-B for the second grondchild, etc., and so on until some future year when some one again brings the family record up to date in a new volume. Please cooperate with the rest of the family to that end by keeping an accurate record.
